Pride, Not Cowardice, Kills Equality Overdone Quarrelling in a Storm Ford's 40 Years

—By Arthur Brisbane—

DECORATION DAY is over, and some, in sorrow, have decorated graves of men that thought they were rich, three years ago, and decided to escape a puzzling situation, by suicide.

It has been said, in many cases, unjustly, that he who kills himself runs away, and is a coward. If he leaves those dependent on him to want, it is cowardice. But, more often, back of the leaps from high windows, are injured pride, and humiliation that cannot endure the thought of longer existence. A man goes from this world, because he is ashamed to remain in it.

You may say that he might better have stayed and fought it out, that time cures everything, even loss of money. But you cannot justly call cowards those in whom loss of money and pride is worse than death.

Fourscore and seven years ago, our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Lincoln said it, dedicating the Gettysburg Cemetery, and for some it is proving uncomfortably true in this depression. Our self acknowledged nobility has been that of money. Our recognized superiority, or inequality, is that of fortune. Men find themselves unpleasantly "equal" when their stock values and paper millions melt, and they walk on the heavy earth, instead of walking on air.

You may call up one once full of solemn advice, and all-knowledge, and hear a voice, broken, gloomy, asking "what do you hear?" And you cannot reply "I hear that you are being 'put through the wringer.'"

In a bad storm at sea, hearing the captain quarreling with the first mate and the second mate calling the captain an inefficient fool, passengers would not be happy.

In the present economic storm, citizens, hearing the principal officials in their government belittling each other, feel none too cheerful. Men quarrel, when they can think of nothing useful to do. It is a sad, annoying thought, but the people of the United States may be compelled to take a real interest in their government, and do some thinking for themselves.

The "best minds" of high finance, rather dazed, read Governor Roosevelt's recent speeches about "The Forgotten Man" and the need of a new kind of government system. They asked: "Am I dreaming? Is someone really suggesting that ours is not the ultimate and absolutely perfect government? Is it possible that we might have a radical President?"

Those best minds will be more puzzled when they learn that the Middle West and Far West, the farmers tired of wheat selling for 30 cents on the farm, the workers idle, or with pay cut, call Governor Roosevelt "an old fashioned and conservative" and demand some "plain speaking."

Millions of Americans were as conservative as so many bread paddings while the car, radio, washing machine and bungalow installments were all paid up. But that has changed . . . changed, and 1932 edition of Karl Marx might sell many copies, if the dissatisfied had money to buy them in spite of the fact that they would not generally understand Marx, any more than he would understand them.

It will all pass, like a dream about falling out of a tree. We shall all climb back into the prosperity tree again. But, how we hate that falling sensation.

Henry Ford has published widely, the first of three articles on unemployment a problem that he divides into three sections, KEEPING EMPLOYMENT AT THE MAXIMUM, SELF-HELP AND CHARITY.

Charity, Mr. Ford describes well, in one word, "barbarous." And adds "I think it a shameful thing that any man should have to stoop to take it, or give it." "The charity of our cities," says Mr. Ford, "is the most barbarous thing in our system, with the possible exception of our prisons."

More interesting and encouraging, for every American with any ambition, is Mr. Ford's casual remark "for the first 40 years of my life I was an employe. When I was not employed by others, I employed myself. I found very early that being out of mire was not necessarily being out of work."

Ford was always thinking, planning, trying.

A young lieutenant stepped from the ranks and complained to Napoleon. "I have been six years a lieutenant, there seems to be no chance of advancement."

Napoleon replied, "I was my-

HOOVER BEGS CONGRESS TO SPEED UP

STUDENT TELLS OF POLICE 'FIXING'

Try Harvard Captain in Secret

ARMSTRONG, OARSMAN, 'ON CARPET'

Up Before Bingham, Following His Arrest Saturday on a Charge of Drunkenness

Behind closed doors, William E. Armstrong, captain of the Harvard varsity crew, was "on the carpet" today before Bill Bingham, director of athletics at the university—the conference being understood to result from Armstrong's arrest for drunkenness last Saturday.

Also at the conference was Charles Wiltside, varsity crew coach, but none of the conferees would discuss the meeting when it was over.

Armstrong appeared decidedly "glum" when he emerged from the conference. When asked if his dereliction had occurred during a permitted temporary break in training, he said:

"Well, that doesn't help at all."

UP TO DEANS

Whether Armstrong with the Yale race ahead, will lose his seat in the shell was a matter of speculation at Harvard today as the chapter of deans held its weekly meeting.

It was thought probable that the Armstrong incident, being too recent, probably would not be considered at the meeting this week, however, but that it might be considered next week.

The Crimson, undergraduate daily referred to the affair as a "relatively minor incident" in an editorial today. The Harvard athletic committee, of which Armstrong himself is an undergraduate member, is expected to confer with Charles White de.

Edward V. Huntington, professor of mechanics at Harvard, in a letter to the Crimson, pointed out that in 1908, just before the Yale race two Harvard oarsmen were dropped in punishment for a misdemeanor and Harvard won the race, anyway. On that occasion President Eliot refused to follow a telegrapher suggestion from President Roosevelt that some other punishment be given.

HOOVER PUTS 3-POINT PLAN TO SENATE

Tired and Worn, He Pleads in Person to "Save the Dollar and Balance Budget"

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, May 31 (INS)—In an atmosphere reminiscent of war days, President Hoover went before the Senate in person today with a plea for the speedy enactment of a budget-balancing tax bill, and the adoption of economy measures.

Mr. Hoover presented a three-point program:

1—Balance the budget.
2—Stabilize the dollar.
3—Enact unemployment relief legislation.

The delay in passing the tax bill, the President said, has resulted in the world getting exaggerated idea of conditions in this country, leading to heavy withdrawal of gold and unstabilizing the dollar abroad.

OPPOSES SALES TAX

But, he added, the country has the resources and the ability to weather the crisis, and he predicted that it will so weathered.

The President said he was not in favor of a general sales tax, which brought a few gasps of surprise from the crowded floors, as earlier Mr. Hoover had spoken favorably of it to a number of senators.

He did, however, declare that there was merit in the Walsh plan, which would impose a limited sales tax of ½ per cent.

The President stressed economies as a means of balancing the budget. He told how "a non-partisan effort" was made in the House to effect economies but said "it largely failed." He thereupon appealed to the Senate through its non-partisan economy committee to further reduce governmental expenditures.

He made reference to sacrifices

TAX INCREASE BATTLE ON IN HOUSE

Bill Boosting Income Tax Levy, Assessing Cigarettes, Cutting Pay Bitterly Opposed

The House met today to debate the $13,500,000 tax bill for welfare funds, and a spectacular battle was forecast.

The bill is that reported out by the Joint ways and means and taxations committees, providing, among other sources of revenue, a 10 per cent increase in state income and corporation taxes, a 2-cent cigarette tax, a 5 and 8 per cent salary reduction for state and county employes and a one-cent additional tax on gasoline.

There were worthy opponents for each of its separate features and a possibility that the entire structure of the bill would crumble before the individual attacks.

Members of the Legislature were "snowed under" by telegrams of protest from citizens and could only through practically all of these were concerned with the gasoline tax. Rep. Horace Cahill of Braintree received 135 such telegrams. Apparently the gasoline interests had been exceedingly active over the week-end.

SAWYER CHANGES CUT

Rep. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware made the first direct floor move against the bill as reported with an amendment affecting the salary reduction provision.

As it stands the bill provides for a six per cent reduction of salaries up to $5200 and an eight per cent cut on those drawing more.

Sawyer's amendment provides for a five per cent reduction on salaries up to $2000; 10 per cent on salaries up to $3500 and 15 per cent above $3500 to $10,000.

A feature of the amendment is that the reduction for members of the Legislature and other elective offices would be retroactive to January 1, all others being affected as from June 1, 1932, to June 1, 1933.

MEETING ON BOND ISSUE

Sawyer holds the Legislature has no authority to touch the salaries of the governor and Supreme court justices and they would be exempt.

Before the House met, C. F. Nelson Pratt of Saugus called a special meeting of all representatives, he could muster to consider Frank A. Goodwin's proposed bill which would substitute for the whole tax program.

This provides for an issue of $27,000,000 in state bonds over a period of three years, the proceeds to be divided among cities and towns for welfare work and the bonds to be retired by a six per cent tax on securities that are now tax exempt. This plan has many supporters and many vigorous opponents.

$22,500,000 Army Measure Approved

Washington, May 31 (AP)—The James bill for $22,500,000 army construction program was approved today by the House military committee and will be offered as an amendment to the Glass relief bill.

The bill allots $13,325,000 for housing at army posts and $7,165,000 for technical construction work at aviation posts.

French Sloop Will Leave Late Today

The French convoy sloop Ville d'Ys, which has been here five days, was scheduled to sail late today from the Navy Yard on the return trip to France.

Carrying 102 officers and men, the French war vessel has been tied up at the Navy Yard, some of her crew taking part in local Memorial Day exercises.

MILK FIRMS GET COURT WRIT

The Whiting milk companies today appealed to the Superior Court for protection against alleged discrimination on the part of the board of health of the town of Clinton.

They claimed the board was putting into effect tomorrow a regulation barring the Whiting companies from doing business in the town.

Atty. Raymond S. Wilkins obtained an order of notice returnable June 7, commanding the Clinton board of health to appear and show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued, restraining it from giving publicity to the measure of enforcing it.

CONTRACTOR IS FOUND DEAD

De Young, whose wife is seriously ill in her mother's home in Randolph, died from a fractured skull, an autopsy revealed.

De Young, accompanied by John Jordan, Thomas and George Frazier, of Braintree, arrived at his home early today after an all-night observance of the holiday. The three men told police they had carried De Young up a flight of stairs and when they neared the top lost their hold on him and he plunged headlong over the stairs.

They picked him up again, they said, and carried him to his room and left him there. All were positive he was alive and complained of no injuries after the fall.

De Young's failure to appear for a conference with a Braintree business man this morning led to the discovery of his body.

BRANDT OUT TO HALT GIANTS

Manager Bill McKechnie has nominated Ed "Lefty" Brandt to pitch the third and final game of the series with the New York Giants at the Wigwam this afternoon.

Dave Bancroft, who is piloting the visitors during John McGraw's illness, will call upon Bill Walker, another southpaw, to lead the New Yorkers to a clean sweep over the Warriors.

The Braves are now two and one-half games back of the league-leading Cubs and two games ahead of the third-place Reds.

2 OFFICERS ON TRIAL ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Harvard Freshman, Accuser of the Pair, Refuses to Tell the Names of Radcliffe Girls

Richard Rapport, 17, Harvard freshman, shielded three Radcliffe girls today as he bared details of the alleged solicitation of a bribe by Patrolmen Paul Petzold and Leo Hearns of the East Boston division.

The student refused to give the names of the three girls who were with him and two other Harvard youths on the night they first encountered Hearns and Petzold.

He admitted they were Radcliffe students and declared Petzold threatened to lock all six of them up for the night.

LEFT IN DRUG STORE

They were let go, but a few nights later Rapport and Stanley Smith kept an appointment with Hearns and Petzold and were handed a note, according to Rapport, instructing them to leave money in a drugstore in Tremont st., South End.

The note, which was introduced as evidence, told the students to "see for Joe" at the drugstore and to "tell them it's for Leo."

Rapport, who lives in Flint, Mich., said his male companions on the night they first met Hearns and Petzold were Stanley Smith of Kansas City, Mo., and David Martin, all freshmen.

"We had been dancing in Revere and on the way home with the girls lost our way and got into Central sq., East Boston," testified Rapport.

"We went over to a car parked there with six men, but had difficulty making them understand and the two policemen appeared in another automobile."

THOUGHT THEM MEXICANS

Later under cross-examination by Atty. John J. Crehan for Petzold, he said he knew by their accent that the first six men were Mexicans, drawing a laugh from the spectators in the courtroom.

"Mr. Petzold said he'd better lock the six of us up because Smith, who was driving, did not have a license," continued Rapport. "Smith told him I had a license. Mr. Petzold said it was no good because it was a Michigan license.

"He said if he let us go he would probably lose his job. Finally he said, 'I'll let you go, but I will have to give you a summons anyway.' Then he said, 'You meet me here Friday at 8 o'clock at night.'"

Smith and Rapport told officials of the Harvard Legal Aid society and it was decided that the students instead to solicit a bribe, Capt. Campbell was then informed of the circumstances.

'JAFSIE' QUITS BECKET CAMP

Becket, May 31 (AP)—Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, Lindbergh kidnaping case figure, and his host for the last week, Walter C. Goodwin leave the Goodwin camp today on their return to the Bronx.

Neighbors had been informed of their intention when the pair left camp today in answer to a telephone communication. Goodwin said last night he would like to get Condon back home in time for a party in celebration of his 72nd birthday, which is tomorrow.

ATTY. KAGNO IS DISBARRED

Israel Kagno, Washington st. attorney, was disbarred today by Judge Pierce in Supreme Court as the result of a report filed by William H. Hitchcock, investigator of fraudulent practices in handling automobile insurance cases.

The report states that Kagno forged the names of clients to five drafts and two releases in settlement for their claims.

9 SAVED AS FISH VESSEL BURNS

Woods Hole, May 31—Nine men, the crew of the Irene and Helen, Gloucester fishing schooner, were rescued by the coast guard early today as their vessel burned to the waterline and sank off Nantucket.

The Irene and Helen, a 100-ton vessel equipped for swordfishing, was returning from a three-day trip to the fishing banks and was bound for Boston with a load of swordfish.

The blaze was observed from Nantucket lightship and a request for aid was radioed from the lightship to the Woods Hole coast guard base.

The call was picked up by the Coast Guard Destroyer Tucker, out of New London, on patrol duty in the sound. The destroyer steamed rapidly to the scene arriving just in time to save the crew of the Irene and Helen.

GARNER CALLS HOOVER 'PORK' CHARGE 'EFFRONTERY'

SPEAKER LEADS FIGHT FOR HIS RELIEF BILL

President's Own Words Uttered in 1928 Are Cited to Offset His Accusations

Washington, May 31 (INS)—Charging it was "effrontery" of anyone to intimate that his $2,300,000,000 relief measure was a "pork barrel" bill, Speaker Garner of the House cited President Hoover's own words to the House ways and means committee today in defense of the bill.

"After the election in November, 1928, the President-elect of the United States authorized a statement that it was good public policy, good statesmanship and good foresight for Congress to arrange a $3,800,000,000 building program and keep it in reserve for times of distress," Garner said.

"If that was not his deliberate belief then, I want to ask how you or anyone else can question the intention of members of Congress and have the effrontery to charge them with devising a 'pork barrel' measure when they advocate the same thing in 1932."

Touching on the administration's charge that his bill would further unbalance the budget and deepen the deficit, the Speaker said:

"MUST PAY AS WE GO."

"If there is one thing of which I am jealous it is the financial integrity of our government. For years, as a member of the ways and means committee, I have insisted we must pay as we go. This bill will not interfere, but will help pay the way. It provides a gasoline tax of one-fourth of a cent a gallon, which will raise $42,000,000 a year.

"Experts have advised me that we cannot expend during the next fiscal year more than $400,000,000 on the public buildings program. The interest and sinking fund on that amount, judging by the price and interest rate on the last Treasury bill said, would not amount to $2,300,000.

"This is a sound business policy. It has been done in every state, every county and every city in the country. I consider it the weakness of the Senate relief proposal that no provision is made such as this gasoline tax. Without that I would be unwilling to support this program."

CREDIT TO OTHERS

The Speaker said he hoped he represented the entire people of the United States when he said that no provision of his bill was original with him with the exception of broadening the base of the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

The $100,000,000 fund for direct relief in the Huddleston bill intact, he said, while the public buildings program authorship is that of Rep. Crisp of Georgia. The rivers and harbors provision, Garner said, was inspired by Senator Smoot and Rep. Mansfield of Texas, chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee.

The Speaker said he did not want to discuss details but only the policy of his measure.

"It is safe to say that it is known by all men, especially by members of Congress, that we face a state of affairs where men and women are suffering for want of food," he continued.

TO HELP STARVING

"Admitting this destitution, isn't it the duty of Congress to pass legislation for its relief? Can any of you go back home, admitting the people are starving, and say there is no way that Congress can act to help this situation, or if there is a way that Congress failed to act?"

The Speaker answered his own question, saying:

"Somehow, somewhere, the means must be found to extend relief."

He gave the Reconstruction Finance Corp. generous credit for its "wonderful service to the country." He said it was keeping banks solvent that otherwise would close.

"When we created this body," he pointed out, "we hoped it would provide additional employment for labor, but an analysis is disappointing. I have undertaken to broaden its base and extend the power of its seven directors to grant loans to productive corporations."

WAIF BAPTIZED IN ASYLUM

Abandoned Sunday in St. Theresa's Church, West Roxbury, a five-day-old baby was baptized and given the name Theresa May, at St. Mary's Infant Asylum, Dorchester, yesterday, by the Rev. Patrick Nolan, S. J., of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The baby is apparently unaffected by the exposure suffered as she lay on a collection table in the church before being found.

Police are searching for the parents. Articles of clothing in which the infant was roughly wrapped and a scrap of paper which requested that the baby be baptized are the only clues.

by the people, but he urged Congress to make a "just distribution of the sacrifices." If this were done, he said, it would "establish confidence in the integrity of the government."

APPEARS WORN, TIRED

The President said the necessity for promptness was as great as to balance the budget.

Mr. Hoover appeared tired and worn. His low voice at times could scarcely be heard throughout the chamber, and senators leaned forward, cupping hands to their ears, straining to hear him. His voice sounded tired.

At one point he said:

He offered this as a reason for his "making suggestions" to Congress on the subject of legislation.

The President gave the Garner plan, for a bond issue to finance public works, another hard blow. He said he was opposed to an expansion of public works at this time beyond what is now provided in the existing budget.

He regarded the necessity for unemployment relief, but declared that it should be effected solely through existing agencies, of which the Reconstruction Finance Corp. is the first.

MUST FIND THE MONEY

"I have not and do not favor a general sales tax but in order to show the world we are ready to make any sacrifice I have now come to the conclusion that a limited manufacturers excise tax should be adopted," the President said.

"The abilities of the people to meet their problems are being restrained by the failure of Congress to act."

Touching on unemployment relief, the President made it clear he would oppose any measures for bond issues or extending the public building program.

He told how he favored giving the Reconstruction Finance Corp. a $3,000,000,000 fund to "aid employment and agriculture."

The President urged the Senate to "unite and support the senate finance committee's recommendations."

"I know the committee has made a conscientious effort and I hope therefore we can unite and support the committee's recommendations," he said.

"It is essential that no matter what the details may be the amount necessary to balance the budget must be found."

He expressed the hope that governmental expenditures could be reduced to the lowest point since 1916.

He declared for agricultural loans through the secretary of agriculture to aid in exporting agricultural products.

The Senate voted another increase in individual income tax rates, adding from $70,000,000 to $100,000,000 to the revenue measure in the first move of the drive for new funds.

Secretary Mills told the Senate finance committee the revenue bill as it stands is about $285,000,000 short of a sufficient amount to balance the federal budget.

Secretary Mills was reported by finance committee members to be advocating the sales tax.

Browne's Plane Fell Apart in Air, Says Nearby Pilot

This is the story of Lana Kurtzer, aerial eye-witness to the crash of Sid C. Browne's plane, as told to International News Service.

By LANA KURTZER

Copyright, 1932 International News Service.

Seattle, May 31 (INS)—I was maneuvering as close to the ship as I thought safe so Art French, photographer for International News Photo Service, could get good pictures of the contact between Sid Browne's plane and the refueling ship, when I noticed that about 10 feet of the hose was lying along the tail of Browne's ship.

To my horror, I saw the end of the hose was caught in the stabilizing strut—exactly the same spot struck by a tree in his takeoff Sunday morning. Browne apparently tried to dive when the wings folded back against the fuselage and the plane started dropping.

It seemed to disintegrate in the air, dropping into the water in small bits. Browne and Frank Brooks, his helper, jumped out and we saw their parachutes, blossoming like mushrooms, fall below us.

French was working his camera like mad. I dropped as quickly as I dared and circled the spot where the two men had fallen in the water. I dived within 25 feet of the surface and yelled at Browne, who was still afloat. He waved his hand, indicating he was all right.

I continued circling the spot until a speedboat came out and picked up both men. When I was sure they were both saved, I returned to the airport.

Browne Sunk His All in Attempted Flight

Seattle, May 31 (AP)—Months of preparation for trans-Pacific flight came to naught when Sid Browne's airplane "Lone Star" was wrecked in a refueling attempt near the take-off point yesterday.

The Texas born flier, and his volunteer parachute jumper assistant in refueling, Frank Brooks, were rescued from Puget Sound without serious injury.

Brooks said the weighted nozzle of the hose of the refueling plane caught the "Lone Star's" stabilizer, lifted the tail, smashed the rudder assembly and threw the ship into a steep dive which ripped off a wing.

Seeking a prize of nearly $20,000 for the first flight from Seattle to Tokio before the time limit of the five-year offer expires at midnight, June 1, Browne had elected to refuel in mid-air after Sunday's difficulty in getting the heavily loaded ship off the ground.

"What breaks I get on this trip," sobbed Browne, as he was put to bed for treatment for a dislocated shoulder. "I could have made it, too."

"Every dime I had was invested in my plane. I risked everything I had. Now I have nothing."

RICH AMERICAN SLAIN AT WILD LONDON PARTY

Stevens Found Shot to Death in Flat of U. S. Singer's Divorced Wife

London, May 31 (AP)—A man about 35 years old, who, neighbors say, was a wealthy Amtrican and identified by Scotland Yard as Michael Scott Stevens, was found shot to death early today in the fashionable flat occupied by Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, wife of John Sterling Barney, 31, an American singer.

Barney was understood to be one of the group known as the "Three New Yorkers" who at one time played at the Cafe De Paris and also in "Many Happy Returns."

COCKTAIL PARTY

The tragedy in the flat in the fashionable Knightsbridge district occupied by the Barneys followed a cocktail party. Neighbors said they heard cries and a commotion, then the firing of several shots.

Glass smashed, they said, and a woman's voice cried:

"Come quick!"

BARNEYS DIVORCED

Barney, it was understood, came from New York in 1928. Soon afterward he met his wife, Elvira Dolores Mullins, who was trained as an actress and had made several appearances on the stage as Dolores Ashley. Her younger sister, Avril, is the wife of Prince George Imeritinsky, a former officer of the Grenadier Guards.

The Daily News said the Barneys had been divorced.

HOOVER DEFEAT AT HOME SEEN

San Francisco, May 31 (US)—"Will President Hoover carry his home state, California, in the presidential election?"

The answer is "no," according to an analysis of the presidential primary returns which show that 274,034 Republicans went to the polls on May 3, and refused to vote for Hoover's instructed ticket of delegates to the Republican National Convention, although voting on the Sharkey Old Age Pension bill.

The foregoing is from a public statement made by John W. Lewis, attorney and delegate to the Democratic convention.

"Petzold said, 'I should lock you up but I have a son myself and I would like to have him go to college. I know it would go hard with you and that they probably would kick you out if you got in any trouble. I would like to let this drop, but Hearns wants money.

"'I told him I would like to fix it up in whatever way we could.'

This, he said, was done under arrangement with Capt. Campbell. He said Petzold went back and talked with Hearns and returned with the note.

"I asked Petzold what amount of money it would be and he said, 'Well, it's a $25 fine.' He said he would leave it to me how much we should leave at the drug store."

Rapport denied under cross-examination that he thought "every man in uniform was a crook." He admitted that an official of the Harvard Legal Aid Society remarked:

The trial was unfinished, the case being continued to June 10 for defense testimony.

Smith, who also gave his age as 17, was the only other witness. He said he protested when Petzold threatened to lock up the entire party. He said he argued that the girls had to be taken home.

Smith also testified that Petzold, after first giving them the nods, took it back and walked to the police automobile with it. Then, according to the student, Hearns brought the message back with the added notation to "tell them it's for Leo."

CURLEY OFF FOR DETROIT TALK

Mayor Curley left today for Detroit where he is to be one of the principal speakers at a gathering of mayors of the large cities meeting there to discuss unemployment.

The Mayor's topic will be "The necessity of an amendment to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to allow refunding bonds to ease the credit situation of municipalities."

The executives meet at 10 a.m. and the session will close in the afternoon. Mayor Curley plans to leave Detroit at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow morning and to be back at his desk in City Hall Thursday.

He was accompanied on his trip to Detroit by City Treasurer Doiron City Treasurer mfw mfw mfwy H Auditor Carven and by his secretary, Cornelius A. Reardon.

STAR'S SALARY ATTACHED

Hollywood, May 31 (US)—What time did you go to bed last night? Ten o'clock?

What time did you get up this morning? Seven?

It probably has taken you 10 seconds to read thus far.

Her wealth has increased approximately 50 cents in that time.

Some idea of Miss Bennett's income is to be gained from a suit on file in Superior Court, whereby Atty. Ralph Blum attached $16,549.37 of her salary for Frank Joyce and Myron Selznick.

The suit is an outgrowth, Blum said, of a contract obtained from Warner Bros.-First National by Miss Bennett.

She was to receive $300,000 for two pictures to be made in ten weeks. The producing company was to pay one-half the commission of $60,000 to protect the other half. It is her half, with interest, for which he is now suing.

Blum said he has a stubby pencil on a piece of brown wrapping paper. Miss Bennett's salary for ten weeks at $30,000 per week figures $4,285.71 per day; $178.57 per hour; $2.97 per minute and an ice cream cone every second.

POSTAL CLERK FACES ARREST

Gloucester, May 31—With John S. Webber, veteran postal clerk, facing arrest on larceny charges today following the discovery of between $2100 and $2200 shortage in his money order accounts, friends were reported engaged in attempts to raise enough money to make restitution.

The city is stirred by the revelation as Webber, a native of Gloucester, is a member of one of the city's oldest families. He was considered a pillar of the church and is prominent in fraternal activities.

At his home, where he has remained in seclusion since postal inspectors uncovered apparently convincing evidence of his shortages, Webber declined to discuss the case but admitted he was expecting arrest at any time.

Postmaster Gilbert O'Neil said Webber had been removed from his post a week ago after postal inspectors Thomas Rice and O. A. Herne had reported the discovery of shortages over a three-year period.

Cousins Drowned on Fishing Party

Truro, N. S., May 31—Deroine Comeau, 35, of Saulnierville, and Arcade Comeau, 32, of Meteghan Station, cousins, drowned in Beaver Lake Saturday night while fishing. Their overturned dory was found by companions on a fishing party.

HITLER PARTY SPURNS POSTS IN CABINET

New German Election Is Demanded; Riots Follow the Ousting of Bruening

Berlin, May 31 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's National Socialists today turned their back on participation in the German Government until the verdict of the people has been obtained by general elections following dissolution of the present Reichstag.

A spokesman for the Nazis informed the Associated Press party leaders were certain new elections would give them a clear majority, and meantime they would have nothing to do with a stop gap cabinet.

This statement came while President Paul Von Hindenburg, who forced the resignation of Dr. Wilhelm Bruening's ministry yesterday, was conferring with leaders of other parties in an attempt to provide the nation with a new government.

4 HURT IN RIOTING

Nazi demonstrations were put on in front of the presidential palace while conferences were going on. Numerous Hitlerites massed there shouted:

"Hail Hitler!"

In Unter Den Linden Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's mouthpiece, tried to address a crowd from an automobile, but the police forced him to move along.

In fashionable Bendelerstrasse there was a demonstration that assumed somewhat more serious proportions. Police were stoned and retaliated with their pistols, wounding a woman. Three policemen were injured and six demonstrators arrested.

Dr. Ludwig Kaas, in behalf of the Centrists, told the President that in view of the dismissal of Dr. Bruening his party was not interested in the formation of the cabinet. Dr Bruening is a Centrist.

HUGENBERG "ON FENCE."

Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalist party, said the attitude of his followers would be determined by the personality of the man summoned to form the new ministry.

Hitler, whose views on all important matters of foreign policy, including reparations, run close to those of Dr. Hugenberg, had seen the President yesterday.

The country at large seemed to take the confused political situation with remarkable quiet.

North Dana, May 31—Spencer Towne, 41, of Hardwick rd., was killed when a saw he was working snapped.

self seven years a lieutenant, yet, you see, I have arrived."

Ford also arrived, after living 40 years, employed by other men, often at work and wages that many of our modern unemployed young gentlemen would scorn.

The lowest point of Ford employment at Dearborn, in the depression, was 40,000 men. Not bad, for one who never hired any one until he was 40. And not one of the 40,000, or the greater number now employed, gets more than six dollars a day.

Contrast that condition with the speech in which an early President of this Republic complained that you could no longer hire a good American worker for less than $100 a year.

Things might be worse.

Good times will come back. Thinking, planning and working will bring them back. Complaining will help nothing, although there will be plenty of it. Nobody is responsible for conditions, although general foolishness, recklessness and self complacency are largely responsible.

The world is paying for the Great War, and this nation, as usual, is the chief paymaster.

Ambassador Willys and Wife Homeward Bound

Warsaw, Poland, May 31—U. S. Ambassador John N. Willys and Mrs Willys have left Warsaw for the United States, where Mr. Willys will re-enter the automobile business.

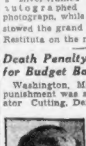
Death Penalty Asked for Budget Balancers

Washington, May 31 — Capital punishment was advocated by Senator Cutting, Democrat, of New Mexico, for any person who mentions the term "balance the budget."



Senator Cutting

"There isn't one person in a thousand who knows what it means," he said. "The average citizen has been fed 'balance the budget' until he parrots it like a parrot.

"I was dragged out of bed at 4 o'clock in the morning by a Pennsylvanian on the phone who wanted to know how I stood on the tax bill section about 'balancing the budget.' I suggest capital punishment for the next person who mentions it."

Dr. Echener Wins Suit Against Fascist Editor

Stuttgart, Ger., May 31—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, was victorious in a suit against a Fascist editor who printed a satiric poem concerning him in the Nazi magazine of Munich.

The editor was fined 100 marks, amounting to about $25.00 American money, and was censured for his work.

"I am interested primarily in ascertaining if in these days of political rawness, such insults can be made with impunity." Dr. Eckener said.

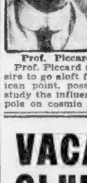
Piccard Plans New Trip Up to Outer Atmosphere

Zurich Switzerland, May 31—Prof. Auguste Piccard last year ascended more than 10 miles into the outer atmosphere, told the press he may make his next trip into the stratosphere with the Belgian physicist, Cosyns.



Prof. Piccard

His balloon, carrying a metal gondola, will also be equipped with a short wave wireless set to report progress or to ask aid in case of a forced landing.

Prof. Piccard also expressed a desire to go aloft from a North American point, possibly in Canada, to study the influence of the magnetic pole on cosmic radiation.

BOSTON SOCIETY STAGES A 'RUN' ON RENO COURTS

JUNIOR LEAGUERS GUESTS

MISS DOROTHY STEBBINS — WILLIAM HAINES

MRS. LYON WEYBURN — JEAN HERSHOLT

One of the recent brilliant society events in Los Angeles was a luncheon given at the M. G. M. film studios for delegates to the national convention of Junior Leagues, and among the guests were social registerites of Boston and vicinity. Included in these were Miss Dorothy Stebbins, prominent in younger society circles of Boston, who is shown with William Haines, star of many rollicking screen plays, and Mrs. Lyon Weyburn of 33 Ivy st., who appeared with Jean Hersholt. Dr. Compton Given Degree at Clarkson

Potsdam, N. Y., May 31 (AP)—The honorary degree of Doctor of Science was conferred on Dr. Karl Taylor Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at the 33rd commencement at Clarkson College today. Dr. Compton was the commencement speaker.

Willard Walton Steeves of Rutland, Vt., was awarded the Frederica Clarkson scholarship.

4 Bank Bandits to Hang in New Orleans

New Orleans, May 31 (AP)—Four bandits are to be hanged tomorrow in the jail here.

They killed Raymond Rizzo, a grocer, during a gun battle with police after robbing a bank. The robbery was planned by Ito Jacques, New Orleans Negro, who went to Chicago and induced Donald Rylich, Herman Taylor and George O'Day, Chicago hoodlums, to join in the crime.

ROMANCE IN SOUTH SEAS

MRS. BIGELOW — STEPHEN BIGELOW

Mrs. Stephen Sohier Bigelow, the former Mary McDevitt, of Brighton, and her society husband are enthusiastic about their honeymoon in the South Seas, it was learned today, and plan to remain for several more months.

BLUE BOOK FOLK WIN NEVADA DIVORCES

Local Social Registerites Are Second Only to the New Yorkers in "Census"

Reno, Nev., May 31 (INS)—Boston, suddenly and for some unaccountable reason, has become Reno-conscious, with the result that the Massachusetts city bids fair to be one of the leading contributors to Reno's 1932 crop of divorced celebrities.

Although few persons of prominence from Boston sought the "Reno cure" in 1931, that city's social register is second only to the New York volume in names appearing on the divorce court register of actions thus far in 1932.

IN SOCIAL REGISTER

Mrs. Ellen Putnam Blodget and Mrs. Lucile M. Hyde started Boston's 1932 trek to Reno-freedom on April 4 when they divorced Wilham Power Blodget and Henry Webb Hyde, both socially prominent in the New England city.

Mrs. Edytha Macy Lewis obtained a divorce here April 25 from Burnham Lewis, and on the following day Elizabeth P. Blanchard was granted a decree from W. Scott Blanchard. The names of both couples appear in the Boston social register.

Mrs. Amory Goddard, also socially prominent in Boston, is awaiting completion of her six-weeks' residence at a nearby dude ranch, and is expected to file a divorce suit shortly.

Mrs. Nancy Hoyt Curtis, noted novelist, divorced Edward Davison Curtis, Boston banker, here last February.

OTHER NOTABLES

In addition to those listed above, Mrs. Maude L. Moore and Mrs. Elsie S. Berggren of Boston have been granted divorces here this year. Mrs. Moore was the wife of Frederic E. Moore, auditor for the New England Telephone Co. Mrs. Berggnen divorced Hjalmar F. Berggren, reputedly wealthy furniture dealer.

Mrs. Mabel Hawley Wheeler obtained a decree from Leonard Wheeler, wealthy business man.

Other Boston divorce actions, instituted here since Jan. 2, 1932, include Jacob Preves vs. Frances N. Preves, Rachel F. Wilbur vs. Frederick Wilbur, Richard Carl Stuart Chatham vs. Anna Louise Chatham and Cahrles Sinabian vs. Arden Sinabian.

HIT-RUN DRIVER SUSPECT HELD

Arthur McAden, of Cedar st., North Cambridge, who reported his car stolen last night, was today identified as a "hit and run driver" by two girls in municipal court and so held.

His case was continued for two weeks after charges of leaving the scene of an accident, driving without a license and operating so as to endanger, were placed against him.

McAden was identified as the driver of an automobile which, at Dartmouth st., struck Olga Venon, 62, of Hemingway st., and left her lying in the road injured. She was taken to the Boston City Hospital.

The two girls pointed him out as the operator who struck the woman, continued 100 yards and then returned and passed by the prostrate and injured woman after making some remark to the witnesses who yelled after him.

FLIER AND BRIDE IN SOUTH SEAS

The pre-nuptial and post-marriage troubles of Stephen Sohier Bigelow, war-time ace and scion of a wealthy Boston family, and his bride, the former Mary Loretta McDevitt, of Brighton, have been assuaged by a romantic honeymoon in Tahiti, South Seas, it was learned today.

"Steve" Bigelow's romance with Mary, daughter of a Brighton deputy sheriff, drew fire from the families of both the young people and resulted last October in a marriage, which the young couple declared was their second, in a New York Bowery mission.

Then the couple left for the West and sailed from San Francisco for Tahiti.

Mrs. Joseph Bigelow, "Steve's" society mother, declared from her Cohasset home that the honeymooners plan to spend several more months in Tahiti.

Telephone Coin Box Robber Is Jailed

Chicago, May 31—A scheme to banish hard times so far as he personally was concerned has led Edward G. Merrick, 57, to a jail cell. Police charged he operated a system to rob telephone coin boxes

WIVES WHO CROSSED U. S. TO SNIP TIES

AMONG FIRST

Reno recalls that Boston's socially prominent folk are giving this city leading place in Nevada's divorce census. Mrs. Lucile M. Hyde was one of season's first.

DIVORCED BANKER

Mrs. Nancy Hoyt Curtis, the novelist, who divorced Edward Davison Curtis, Boston banker, early in the season. Both their names are listed in the social register.

WON SUIT IN APRIL

Among other prominent society folk divorced in April in Reno is Mrs. Elizabeth P. Blanchard, who won a decree there on April 26 from W. Scott Blanchard.

NEW ROCKPORT SLAYER HUNT

Rockport, May 31—State police investigating the "hatchet slaying" of Arthur F. Oker, wealthy tailor, turned to Oker's private life today, hopeful that it might lead to the identity of his killer.

State Detectives William J. Murray and Richard Griffin, on orders from Dist.-Atty. Hugh Cregg, compiled a list of names of persons acquainted with Oker, either through business dealings or social and fraternal activities.

Among these are persons to whom Oker recently had sent statements of their accounts, on the chance that some person enraged at receiving a bill had gone to Oker's store to remonstrate and after an argument killed the tailor.

A sudden police conference at which Dist. Atty. Cregg was present was held in police headquarters today.

State detectives later said it was their opinion the slayer of Oker was a local resident.

4 Hurt as Auto and Bus Meet in So. End

Four persons were injured early today when an automobile in which they were riding collided with an empty Boston and Worcester bus at Columbus ave. and Arlington st., South End.

The injured, all occupants of an automobile operated by Matthew Cavanaugh of Dewey st., Wilmington, were: Mrs. Charlotte Cavanaugh, his wife; Fred Finn, Medford st., Charlestown; Miss Rose Banca, Winthrop st., Charlestown, and John Gaurancia, Chambers st., West End.

5 BALLOONS IN RACE; ONE OUT

Omaha, Neb., May 31 (INS)—Somewhere in the Northwest, five giant gas bags were believed to be floating through the air toward the Canadian wilds today in the annual National baloon race.

The first mishap occurred last night shortly after the takeoff when the City of Detroit, piloted by Pete Larson of Detroit, was forced down at Fort Calhoun, 15 miles north of Omaha.

The Chevrolet Motor Co. balloon, driven by Tracy Southworth of Monroe, Mich., was the first to take off. The four other entries were two United States army balloons, the Goodyear Zeppelin bag and the City of Omaha.

2 Women Plunge Out of New York Hotels

New York, May 31 (AP)—Two women plunged out of hotel apartment windows on the East Side, only a few blocks apart, today. Mrs. Telye H. Strousse, 50, at the Hotel Carlyle, 35 East 76th st., was killed. Miss Aida Messrivia, 40, who had been living in an apartment hotel at 541 East 78th st., suffered a fractured skull.

'HONOR SLAYER' AT RACES

MRS. FORTESCUE — HELEN FORTESCUE — MAJ. FORTESCUE

Mrs. Granville Fortescue, who was recently convicted then freed with Lieut. Massie and two naval enlisted men in the Honolulu "honor slaying," is shown with her husband, Maj. Fortescue, U. S. A., and her daughter, Helen, at the Belmont Park, N. Y., races. (International News Photo.)

HUSBAND CRUEL WIFE TESTIFIES

Twof ractured ribs and a fractured elbow, combined with other acts of cruelty at the hands of her husband were charged today in Suffolk Probate Court when Mrs. Honora S. Tubman of Farragut st., South Boston sought a divorce from Thomas B. Tubman of Carver.

Judge Arthur W. Dolan heard the evidence and ruled that a decree nisi would be issued when a previous libel in Essex County had been dismissed.

The couple were married in September, 1927. Mrs. Tubman testified, and lived in Lynn, Peabody and Boston before moving to Falmouth last year.

"I had to leave him," she said. "He used to have fits of jealousy when he was drinking. One time, in August, 1931, when a girl friend was visiting me, he mistook incidents she was reciting about her vacation, and took it out on me.

"He flew into a rage of jealousy, and struck me so hard he fractured two ribs."

WALTHAM FIRE DRIVES OUT 14

Two automobiles and a two-car garage were destroyed in Waltham early today and two houses adjoining on either side were damaged in a fire started, it is believed, by a short circuit in one of the cars locked in the garage.

The fire forced two families, including 10 children, to flee, but fast work on the part of firemen kept the flames from doing any great damage to either residence.

Patrolman Leonard Doyle who saw the fire as he was driving home, aroused Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sullivan and their daughter, Mildred, 14, at 854 Main st. and then awakened Adolph Cormier, a Waltham fireman, his wife and nine children, at 65 Russell st., in the rear.

Mildred Sullivan climbed through a window to a small roof and was about to jump when told by her mother that escape by the stairway was possible. She then returned through the window.

Cormier, after assisting his family, joined the firemen in fighting the flames. The fire caused a loss of approximately $2500.

DESCRIPTION TALLIES WITH CARL LIDEN

Man Who Fled Worcester Asylum Hunted as Assailant of Arlington Victim

Carl Liden, an escaped maniac from the Worcester State Hospital, was being sought today by Belmont police as the possible attacker of Mrs. Jean Chase of Lake st., Arlington.

Mrs. Chase was brutally assaulted by a man whom she described as demented, while she was wandering through the woodlands at the Arlington and Belmont town lines yesterday afternoon.

In reporting the assault Mrs. Chase said that the man was six feet tall, rugged and had blue eyes. She said he murmured words that indicated to her that he was insane.

Mrs. Chase's description of her attacker was identical with that of Liden and Belmont police today obtained photographs of Liden to see if Mrs. Chase could identify them.

When word of the similarity of the descriptions of Liden and Mrs. Chase's attacker was flashed to Boston police officials new police details were sent to the homes of West Roxbury and Hyde Park, relatives of Liden to watch for his appearance there.

Liden escaped from the Worcester State Hospital on May 9 his relatives called for the police protection fearing that he would return to their home and attempt to slay Mrs. Andrew Zachrisson, whom he shot in 1920.

It was because of the shooting of Mrs. Zachrisson that Liden was sent to the Worcester State Hospital for the Insane.

Man Rides 80 Miles in Taxi; Can't Pay

Weldon Powett of Mashpee came to Boston and enjoyed himself very much, he told state police.

According to them, Powett decided to hire a taxicab and race back home where a dance was in progress. At the conclusion of the 59-mile ride between here and Mashpee the cab driver sought his fare which amounted to $20. Unable to pay, Powett was locked up at the Barnstable barracks, charged with being drunk and with evasion of fare.

'TRAP' CHARGED IN DEFENSE OF 'LOVE' RECTOR

London, May 31 (INS)—How an advertising campaign scheduled for the United States was responsible for the fact the Rev. Harold Francis Davidson was photographed with a partly nude 16-year-old girl was described today in Consistory Court, where the 59-year-old rector is on trial on immorality charges.

The mother of the girl, described in the proceedings only as "Miss D." was summoned as a defense witness.

"My daughter was photographed to advertise her figure for the films," the mother said. "The picture was to be sent by air mail to America. I hoped she would get a job in the United States."

Davidson posed with the girl, she said, "but learned later it was a disgusting trap."

The girl herself took the stand and explained how she came to be photographed with the rector with only a shawl partly draped around her.

It was first suggested, the mother said, that her daughter be photographed without even so much as the shawl.

"But I objected to this," said the girl.

The Bishop of London testified he had known Davidson 30 years, and that he "often begged money from me."

The bishop, referring to a letter he wrote in which he said Davidson has "pestered" him for 20 years, declared the word was "too strong," adding that he did not know the letter was to be made public. He was asked concerning Davidson's moral reputation.

"I have never heard anything against him," he said.

Yeggs Wreck Safe, Frightened Away

Safe-breakers who apparently were frightened away before they could complete the job, knocked the combination off a safe in the furniture store of the P. F. Carey Co., 380 Washington st., Brighton, some time between 9:30 p. m. Saturday and 8 a. m. today.

Miss Elizabeth Dowe, who found the break, said the store was broken into last July and $80 stolen.

Heywood Broun's Horse Has Vanished

Stamford, Ct., May 31 (AP)—Heywood Broun, New York columnist, was joined today by kindly neighbors in a game of "button, button, who's got Heywood's Button?"

The missing "Button" is a horse belonging to Broun's son. It either strayed or was stolen from its stable at the Broun summer home.

Capt. Adams Named Executive at Yard

Capt. Rowe R. Adams of the bureau of naval operations, Washington, is to be the new executive officer at the Boston Navy Yard, it was announced today.

SORRY FOR SALTONSTALL

Now that Frank A. Goodwin has entered the lists against Lieut.-Gov. William S. Youngman for the Republican nomination for Governor, expressions of regret are being heard on the Hill that Speaker Leverett Saltonstall of the House decided so soon he would not be a candidate.

O'BRIEN "HET UP"

Bill O'Brien, head of the telephone and telegraph division in the state department of public utilities, is all "het up" over the "abuse" of party-line telephone service. "Can't get the wire" complaints, it seems, are increasing. This is explained to a degree by the fact that the depression has switched a lot of subscribers from other classes of service to the party lines.

HARD FIGHTER

Rep. George Anderson, of the Back Bay, has come to be a real power in the House. A hard fighter in debate, he never quits no matter how tough the going is. George would like to go to the Senate this trip, they say.

CAMPAIGN STARTS

Friends of Joseph Cheever of Dorchester, candidate for governor's council to succeed Chester I. Campbell of Quincy, are arranging for a mass meeting of his followers in Hyde Park municipal building early next month. "Joe" was defeated for that office by a narrow margin two years ago and is confident that the organization work he has been doing since that time will result in victory for him next fall.

Hyde Park supporters of District Attorney William J. Foley, led by S. Thomas Falcone, have begun organization of a Foley-for-Mayor League. Present plans call for a membership of 10,000 in that and adjoining districts.

If You Fall Asleep After a Kiss in Taxi, It's Narcolepsy

Philadelphia, May 31 (AP)—A queer disease called narcolepsy, which, Dr. S. Bernard Wortis of New York City pointed out, might cause you to fall asleep after kissing a girl in a taxicab, was discussed at the opening session of the American Psychiatric Association's 88th annual convention.

Today Mayor Moore officially welcomed the delegates and Dr. William L. Russell of White Plains, N.Y., president of the association, was to deliver his annual message. The convention continues until Saturday.

Victims of narcolepsy, Dr. Wortis said, very often fall asleep after hearing a story. In general the malady usually has the effect of putting the victim soundly to sleep for a few moments after any emotional strain.

Tries thus far, the physician said, have failed to locate the spot in the brain which controls the attacks.

In expressing his belief that epilepsy is not hereditary, Dr. Calvert Stein of Palmer, Mass., precipitated a sharp controversy at the divisional meeting on convulsional disorders. A number of physicians challenged his report that a study of the immediate families of 612 epileptics showed that only 4.1 per cent of the relatives had the disease.

Dr. Morgan B. Hodskins, of Palmer, Mass., was nominated for the presidency of the organization to succeed Dr. Russell.

"Psychology of the Nudists" will be the topic of a discourse, Friday, by Dr. Sandor Lorand of New York, who believes society is wise in partially tolerating nudists because it helps to keep them from developing other more serious neurotic symptoms.

74 N. E. FOLK ARE IN DERBY DRAWING

Seventy-four New England residents were building air castles today following reports from Montreal and London that their tickets had been drawn in the Canadian Army and Navy and Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes, both being held on the Epsom Derby.

Of the total 74 Greater Boston residents hold tickets on starting horses and are assured the usual heavy-odds chance of having their horse come through and dump wealth beyond their wildest dreams into their laps.

FORTUNE FOR PRIZE

By a peculiar coincidence, the only New England residents whose names were drawn in the Irish Hospitals sweep are all from Greater Boston. All stand to win something even if their horses do not win or place. First money is $111,000, second prize amounts to $55,500, and $37,000 comes to the third place winner.

The lucky nine are: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Coughlin, of 987 River st., Hyde Park, Bacchus; James Morrissey of 63 Lexington st., Charlestown, Bacchus; Willis F. Kimball, of Depot st., South Boston, Bacchus; Ernest Gavel, of 28 Washington st., Chelsea, Summer Planet; Abraham Rosenthall, of Lombard ct., Malden, Fidaussi; Miss Mary Brady, of Essex st., Salem, Summer Planet; Mrs. John P. Maguire, of 73 Burt st., Dorchester, Jack Daw, 2d; Thomas Hogan, of 172 H st., South Boston, Dastur; and Brannan (no other name given) of 1691 Commonwealth ave., Brighton, Dastur.

Six drew starting horses in the Canadian sweep and of these four are Greater Boston residents. They are Marie Carmel of 52 Gainsborough st., Back Bay, Cockspen; Anne Daley of Etone st., Brighton, Dastur; Agnes Noyes of Mystic Lake dr., Arlington, Corcy; Stanley Ware of Joseph Marson of Fremont st., Worcester, Rockland, Summer Planet; Chester, Hesperus, and Charles Sawyer of New Bedford, Fidaussi.

In this sweep first money is $32,000 with $11,000 for second prize. There is also a third prize of $5500 and a fourth amounting to $2750.

Besides the fortunate six there are 59 New England residents, many from Greater Boston, who were drawn but whose horses are not starters. They are certain to receive a sum of money, however, as a consolation prize.

The race will be run at Epsom Downs, England, tomorrow.

$50,000 ORGAN FOR HARVARD

Gift of $50,000 for an organ for the Harvard Memorial Chapel, now nearing completion, was announced today. The donor is Ralph Isham, '15, who presented the money in memory of his son, Albert Keet Isham.

Harvard authorities announced also that a decision would soon be made as to whether the names of three graduates, killed while fighting for the Central Powers, would be placed on the tablet.

Plane, With 'Glacier Priest' Lands Inside Volcano

Kanakanak Alaska, May 31 (AP)—Father Bernard R. Hubbard, the glacier priest, said today hot currents from the erupting vents in the Aniakchak volcano crater literally "lifted" Pilot Frank Dorland's plane out of the depths of the crater four days ago.

With Herb Larison, a mechanic as the other occupant of the plane the Santa Clara (Cal.) University professor said a landing was made inside the great volcano on a small lake and the party spent five hours on the crater's floor. No plane ever has been known to land inside an active volcano before.

After spending the time exploring amid the steam jets and erupting vents, the problem arose of getting into the air again and climbing above the crater walls.

"Taking off gracefully from the lake," Father Hubbard said, "Dorbandt piloted the plane close to the volcano's 2000-foot wall, where the hot currents made a strong upward draft.

"He then zigzagged close to the precipitous cliff. On each turn, the current pushed the plane upwards, and finally the last thrust shot our craft over the rim."

The landing on the lake was made after 20 minutes of flying inside the crater's walls, Father Hubbard said.

LYNCHES PLAN WORLD HOP

Springfield, May 31 (AP)—Lieut. Frank J. Lynch of Summit, N. J., war-time flying instructor at San Diego and a former movie stunt pilot, proposes a 40,000-mile round-the-world flight in a monoplane now nearing completion at Bowles Agawam airport.

Lynch said he would make the trip with his wife, the former Josephine McKee of St. Paul, Minn.

Their plane, a high wing monoplane designed by Robert L. Hall, will have a cruising speed of 175 miles an hour and a top speed of 210 miles an hour.

Lynch and Mrs. Lynch, who is taking flying instructions, plan to start from Newark, N. J., as soon as tests are completed. They plan to go to the Pacific coast, fly north to Nome, Alaska, cross to Siberia by way of Bering Strait to Vladivostok and continue southward across the Malay peninsula, to Australia. From Australia they intend to fly to England and then to Canada and New York by way of Iceland, Greenland and Cochane, Ont.

Three Injured, One Arrested in Crash

Three men were slightly injured when an auto operated by Frank W. Mason, 39, of French st., Pawtucket, R. I., was in collision with a sedan driven by Edmund F. Curley of 73 Lawton ave., Lynn, at Bynner st and Jamaicaway early today.

Mason was alone in his machine, while Curley was accompanied by his brother, Cornelius. Police brought the three to the City Hospital. Mason was placed under arrest charged with operating under the influence of liquor.

Audubon Painting Given to Harvard

One of Audubon's three largest and finest canvases, an oil painting of "Black Cocks" on a grouse moor, has just been presented to University Museum at Harvard by John Elliot Thayer, '85, of Lancaster.

SON, DAUGHTER, WIFE BEATEN, IS CHARGE

The story of a wild battle at a Lynn milk and produce farm, in which a mother, her daughter and son are said to have been beaten, was told in Lynn court today.

Ansell R. MacMillan, proprietor of an auto top repair shop in Saugus, and his former employe, George E. Mulvery of 11 Fosdick ter., Lynn, were the defendants.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Each pleaded not guilty to assault on Mrs. Fred E. Graham of 400 Walnut st., Lynn; her daughter Irene, 18, and son, John H., 22. The case was continued to June 3 at request of defense counsel.

Before continuance was granted, Prosecuting Officer James Fee requested that Irene and John Graham be called to the bench, where they displayed marks of injuries to Judge Ralph W. Reeve.

SON AIDS MOTHER

According to police, MacMillan and Mulvery went to the Graham farm Saturday night, in connection with a civil suit brought by Graham against MacMillan.

Police said that while MacMillan was arguing with Graham in the yard, Mulvery left the machine and entered the house, where he is alleged to have struck Mrs. Graham in the face. Her son went to her aid, police said, and was severely beaten. The daughter, Irene, in the meantime is said to have entered the fray armed with a milk bottle, which she wielded on Mulvery's head. The latter then turned his attention to the girl and is alleged to have dragged her downstairs by the hair.

PUSHED OUT OF BED, SAYS WIFE

Five days after their marriage on last Thanksgiving eve, her husband, John, a Brighton drug store owner, pushed her out of bed, and told her to work, Mrs. Ethel Newstadt, of Dorchester, testified today in probate court, seeking a divorce for cruel and abusive treatment.

She loaned him her savings, she said, amounting to $1100, and asked him to make a home for them. Instead, he opened the drug store.

After the wedding, they went to live in her mother's home and a week later transferred to his mother's home in Dorchester, after he threatened to go whether she accompanied him or not.

"He was disagreeable all the time," she testified. "One Sunday I went to the store with his supper, accompanied by his parents. When I walked in, he yelled: 'What do you think this is? Do you think you can take a vacation all Sunday afternoon while I work.

"On Christmas eve, I took his supper in the store. When he saw me, he shouted that I'd had my hair waved, and asked what I meant by spending so much money.

"He tore my earrings off, threw them on the floor, and pushed me against a chest with such force that I was dazed."

ELY MOVES TO AID DEPOSITORS

In a message to the legislature today, Gov. Ely requested a change in the liquidation law affecting closed banks in order that real estate held by them may be more quickly disposed of for the benefit of depositors.

He asked that the bank commissioner be empowered to take back mortgages when selling real estate held by the banks. More than $8,000,000 in real estate is now held by the commissioner, he pointed out, and the reluctance of banks to take mortgages, and the present law requiring cash transactions insofar as the bank commissioner is concerned, are hampering disposal of the property.

CITIZENS AID STATE BOARD

Representatives of business, labor, and education, have been appointed to a council to advise the state department of labor and industries in matters of legislation, administrative procedure, promotion of industrial development, it was announced today by Commr. Edwin S. Smith.

Mr. Smith expressed gratification at the consent of the council members to serve, and said he expected the commonwealth "will profit by their participation" in problems of the labor and industries department.

Score Injured in False "Fire" Rush

4 STUDY FLYING AS GIFT OF FILM STAR

Burbank, Cal., May 31 (US)—Honoring the dead heroes of the air, several hundred aviation officials and members of the American Legion and auxiliary joined in Memorial Day services at United Airport.

Presentation of five $500 aeronautical scholarships to as many high school students was a feature of the ceremony. Four of the awards were made possible by Marion Davies, noted screen actress, who donated $2,000 to the Legion for this purpose. The fifth was provided by Joseph Fainer, of the Legion, which had conducted a statewide competition for the honors.

STAR LAUDED

The winners, who arrived by plane from various parts of the state, are: Calvin D. Yaggy, Carpinteria; Ellsworth Whelan, San Diego; Miss Janis Hecht, San Francisco; George, Badinger, Bakersfield, and Walter Bertram, Sacramento. Yaggy won the original prize offered.

The speakers included Ann Harding, film actress; Maj. Donald S. Poler, World War ace; Carl Davis, representing Governor Rolph; Von Hogan, State commander of the Legion, and Norman Lyon Hogan presented the scholarship awards, as Miss Davies was prevented from being present because of her motion picture work.

High tribute to Miss Davies' patriotism was paid by Lyon, who is chairman of the Legion's statewide aeronautics committee.

FRIEND OF VETERANS

"I wish we had more practical patriots like Miss Davies," Lyon said. "You may not know it, but for four years she has given generously of her time every Armistice Day to make the Legion's program a success.

"It was because of this loyalty and friendship that I went to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to ask Miss Davies to represent the women of California at the ceremonies.

"She informed me that her motion picture work would prevent her from attending, but imagine my delight when she asked me if she could not establish four other aeronautical scholarships for high school students, and then wrote out a check for the purpose."

STRENGTHEN DEFENCE

"I have the greatest and sincerest regard for the American Legion and a high appreciation of all the great work the Legion is doing for our country," Miss Davies said in a letter accompanying her unsolicited gift.

"Obviously commercial aviation is such an essential aid to our national defense that the activity of the legion in encouraging commercial aviation for national defense must meet the enthusiastic commendation of every patriotic citizen," the famous star added.

In accepting the gift the representatives of the Legion expressed their own gratitude and that of the entire membership throughout the state and nation. The gift, they declared, would serve as a spur to the organized veterans in "carrying on" for the proper development of the nation's defensive arm in the air.

Girl's Mother Gives Key in Love Double Suicide

Lawrence, May 31—Information obtained by police today led them to believe that a suicide pact of some duration was responsible for taking the lives of Miss Helen Luscomb of this city and her married sweetheart, William P. Foster of Andover, in his mountain camp near Alton, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Luscomb, parents of the dead girl, told police two Andover men, close friends of Foster, had informed them a gun was in his possession the night of May 9, when the couple disappeared.

The Luscombs also said Foster had told them he could not live without Helen, who was about to become a mother.

POISON CLUE, TOO

Police today were checking with the Andover men to ascertain how they learned about the gun, and if it were the same weapon found in Miss Luscomb's fur jacket, from which it is believed shots were fired into the heads of the couple. They are also thought to have taken poison.

The two men reported to have given the information concerning the gun are members of the Andover Grange, where Foster and Miss Luscomb met and began their romance.

The girl's body was conveyed to Lawrence late yesterday and placed in a tomb at the West Parish Cemetery. Services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the grave by Rev. Albert J. Higgins, pastor of the Parker st. Methodist church.

Last evening the body of Foster arrived at Andover, and this morning was taken to Harmony Grove, Salem, for cremation. Private services will be held at the home Wednesday at 4 p. m., with burial services at Spring Grove Cemetery, Andover.

Although New Hampshire officials were convinced the couple were victims of a suicide pact, investigation was still going on. Two notes found in the camp were taken to the office of the assistant attorney-general at Concord for study.

It is believed that the notes will be scrutinized by handwriting experts from Boston in an attempt to establish their authorship. Clues found in the camp led police to believe the girl shot her sweetheart and herself after they attempted suicide by slow poisoning.

Police officials said scrutiny of the notes indicated there were as many as three different handwritings on the two pieces of paper. However, they were considering the theory that both notes were written by the same person and an attempt was made to make one handwriting appear the work of another.

Autopsy reports enabled police to work out a well dovetailed theory of how the tragedy was enacted. The notes declared that each had taken a bichloride of mercury tablet and the stomachs were sent to the state pathologist for examination.

DERBY WINNER TO TRAVEL

Salem, May 31—The United States is a great country but it doesn't compare with Ireland, according to Miss Mary Brady of 125 Essex st., holder of a lucky ticket in the Irish Sweepstakes.

Receiving the ticket as a present from an old friend in Ireland, Miss Brady, who is a cook for David Pingree, wealthy local resident, declared she will board the first boat for the Emerald Isle as soon as she collects her winnings.

Miss Brady is about 66 years old and has been in this country 40 of them.

With the ticket, sent her as a birthday present, was a note from the donor, which read:

"If this ticket wins, hurry back to Erin, Mavourneen."

Miss Brady has three brothers, John Brady of South st., Lynn; Daniel and Edward, both of Marblehead, and a sister, Mrs. Helen Crotty of Los Angeles.

Dorchester Woman Bought Ticket in Rome

Mr. and Mrs. John Maguire of 73 Bird st., Dorchester, who drew a ticket on "Disappointed" in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, were not at home today to receive the fair from disappointing news. They were away over the week end and are expected home tomorrow.

According to neighbors, Mrs. Maguire bought the ticket in Rome while on a recent visit to her brother, John Leach, who is studying for the priesthood. Her husband they said, has not worked for three months. They have no children.

Moscow Assails Jap War Demands

Moscow, May 31 (US)—Demands of Fascist newspapers in Japan that Siberia be conquered now to preserve the future of Manchoukuo, the Japanese-created State of Manchuria, today drew fire from the Moscow press. Pravda stated:

"This is an open call to war and illustrates the peacefulness of Japan. Japanese militarists are still living the victory of the Russo-Japanese war, but much has changed since then, as they will discover."

Bill Urges Loans to Boost Exports

Washington, May 31—The Reconstruction Finance Corp. would devote $250,000,000 of its funds to financing the export of cotton and wheat under a bill introduced by Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas.

Loans could be made to United States exporters or to purchasers abroad.

MAYORS ASKED TO URGE U. S. RELIEF

Detroit, May 31 (INS)—A plea to the municipal governments in all states to join in the demand made by the mayors of Michigan for immediate action by Congress on a federal program for direct relief of the unemployed was made today by Mayor Frank Murphy on the eve of the National Mayors Conference.

Final details of the conference, expected to be attended by the mayors of 27 cities, were worked out during the day by Mayor Murphy, Mayor William McKeighan, Flint, Mich., and City Manager George Welch, Grand Rapids.

"In response to the inquiry as to the reasons that actuated the mayors in Michigan in petitioning the President and the Congress in connection with federal relief, I can state them briefly," said the mayor.

SEES CRISIS NEXT FALL

"We believe our American municipalities must organize to make forceful the requirements of the cities for reasonable relief from conditions, in good share, beyond their control.

"The severity and prolonged nature of the present emergency is clearly manifest. The curve of want is mounting. Fall promises to bring a crisis in the human phase of the depression.

"An intelligent co-operative plan on the part of the federal Government is needed to bulwark not only the credit, but the very existence of municipal government. Three things are necessary:

THREE-POINT PROGRAM

"1—A program of direct relief for the unemployed.

"2—An amendment to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. bill to take up refunding obligations of the cities that have put themselves on a sound economy program.

RUM SHIP TAKEN IN GUN FIGHT

Providence, R. I., May 31 (AP)—The speed boat Mitzi of Providence, with a cargo of 400 cases of liquor, was captured early today one-fourth mile off Warwick Light, after being riddled with hundreds of bullets fired at her by a cordon of four Coast Guard boats.

Three members of the rum boat's crew escaped by diving overboard and swimming ashore, while two others, giving the names of Ray Simmons of 927 Broad st., Providence, and George Watkins, 232 Pleasant st. Fall River, were found swimming near the vessel and were hauled aboard the CG-822, the craft which made the capture.

Hundreds on both sides of Narragansett Bay were awakened by the boom of one-pounders and the tattoo of machine guns as the Mitzi fought her way through the hail of shells and bullets fired by three patrol boats, only to be cornered by a fourth craft. The runner out-distanced the Coast Guard boats during a chase of over 12 miles.

Coast Guards Seize Speedboat and Rum

New London, Conn., May 31—The speedboat Margaret, of New York, was seized by coast guardsmen and towed to New York to be turned over to customs officials.

A patrol ship saw the Margaret off Montauk Point, and the speedboat immediately attempted to escape. The patrol ship's warning shot was unheeded and a fusilade of machine gun bullets failed to slacken the Margaret's speed.

Two more patrol ships, attracted by the shots, joined in the chase and the Margaret was run ashore at Fort Pond Bay, where the crew escaped leaving a cargo of 350 cases of liquor behind, valued at $12,000. The coast guardsmen had little difficulty floating the boat.

Lynn Youths Are Blamed in Breaks

Greenfield, May 31—Three Lynn boys caught in West Orange Sunday after they had attempted to break into a filling station there, had just previously committed two breaks in Greenfield, Police Chief Thomas Manning declared after investigation.

The boys, Ernest Karydia, 18, of Ireson st.; Henry McCarthy, 18, of Washington st., and Francis W. Welch, 18, of Union st., all of Lynn, are held responsible by the local chief for breaks in the office of the Franklin County Lumber Co. and the plant of the Jeffers Motor Sales Co.

Coast Guard Aids Disabled Motorboat

Woods Hole, May 31—Coastguard patrol boat 147 was dispatched today to the aid of a small power boat reported in distress a mile and a half northeast of the Pollock Rip lightship.

A radio message from the Pollock Rip lightship said the power boat's signal indicated engine trouble.

MOTHER DUCK IN PUBLIC GARDEN

The stork of duckland is hovering over the pond in the Public Garden. A mother duck is sitting on twelve eggs. It's the second year that this mother duck has returned to Boston. Very few of her friends came back, according to the caretakers. This nest is well guarded.

AUTO IS STOLEN AT PISTOL POINT

A youthful automobile thief who held a would-be captor at bay with a gun is being sought today at the request of police of the Dudley st. station.

The car is a light sedan, Massachusetts registration 139,633, owned by Horace Rubin of Humboldt ave, Roxbury, and stolen from in front of his meat market.

Rubin told police he and an employe, Jacob Zak of Lorne st., Dorchester, stepped through the store door just as the car started.

Zak leaped on the running board, only to find a gun pointed at him and the driver commanding:

"Get off or I'll shoot!"

Plot Blamed in Blast

Vienna, May 31—An anti-royalist plot was blamed for the explosion of five bombs in Belgrade. No deaths were reported.

POPE PIUS, 75, CHANTS MASS

Vatican City, May 31 (AP)—Pope Pius XI, oldest of the world's sovereign rulers, celebrated his 75th birthday anniversary here today with a special mass of thanksgiving in his private chapel.

Only a few officials of the papal household, as well as his sister, Donna Camilla Ratti, and his niece and nephew by marriage, Marquise Persichetti-Ugolini, were invited to the mass.

The Swiss Guards and Papal gendarmes donned their full-dress uniforms, the Papal flag was hoisted at vantage points in Vatican City and the Palatine Guards gave a concert.

Congratulatory telegrams poured into Vatican City from all corners of the earth. They were handed over to Cardinal Pacelli, Papal secretary of state, who will respond to them on the Pontiff's behalf.

At the same time another celebration was under way in the little town of Desio, between Milan and Lake Como, where the Pope was born on May 31, 1857, as Achille Ratti, the fourth child of the master of a local silk factory.

DO YOU INHALE?

Is this question too revealing for other cigarettes?

WE do not criticize others. We merely call your attention to the fact that the vital subject of inhaling has been generally avoided in cigarette advertising.

Why? What's there to be afraid of? Everybody inhales! Seven out of ten smokers inhale knowingly—the other three do so without realizing it. From your side—you want to be sure that the smoke you breathe in is pure and clean—free from certain impurities.

But from the manufacturer's side—he should be sure of giving you this protection. And if he is sure—he need not worry about the question: "Do you inhale?"

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

BUS COMPANY 'HIRED' FRIEND OF WALKER

New York, May 31 (INS)—J. Alan Smith, one of the promoters of the Equitable Coach Company, which six years ago obtained a franchise to operate buses in New York city, took the witness stand before the Hofstadter legislative committee and signed a waiver of immunity.

Smith, a gray-haired, florid-faced man of about 55, admitted, in response to questions by Samuel Seabury, chief counsel of the committee, that in the fall of 1925 he and several other men decided to form the Equitable Coach Company and apply for a bus franchise. He also admitted he employed State Senator John A. Hastings, close friend of Mayor Walker. Hastings is alleged to have been the "political contact man."

Smith was preceded to the stand by James T. Ellis, an accountant of the committee, who testified that the bank and brokerage accounts of Russell T. Sherwood, which he had examined, aggregated $961,225.52. Sherwood, a missing witness, is charged by Seabury with having been Mayor Walker's financial agent. Seabury again tried to show a direct connection between the accounts of Sherwood and the mayor.

Sherwood's whereabouts is not known. Mayor Walker on the stand last week said he has "no idea" where Sherwood is. Sherwood is under subpoena by the committee.

Edge Expected to Back Dry "Repeal"

Paris, May 31 (AP)—The American colony in Paris expects Ambassador Walter E. Edge, who is sailing for home tomorrow, to take an affirmative stand at the Republican convention in Chicago for the abolition of prohibition.

Edge was a conspicuous wet on the floor of the Senate. He will be a delegate-at-large at Chicago from New Jersey.

Ohio Kidnap Suspect Is Placed on Trial

Warren, O., May 31 (AP)—Unexpectedly moving the docket up a day, Trumbull County authorities today brought Anthony Lauri of Youngstown to trial for the kidnaping of 11-year-old James De Jute, Jr.

De Jute, son of a Niles contractor, was held captive three days but his release was effected by officers who found him hidden with two captors in an abandoned gambling house.

4 Drown in Ship Crash Off England

Harwich, Essex, Eng., May 31 (AP)—Four members of the crew of a Belgian fishing smack were drowned today after their craft collided with the London coastwise steamer Prague off here. The crash occurred during a dense fog, and the smack sank within two minutes. One member of its crew was rescued.

All Generals in This Army

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER—

The way it looks now there will be at least three Republican parties and four Democratic.

The big boys are arguing like hoss-traders at a rodeo. They can't agree and are splitting up like soda crackers in hot soup.

The manner in which the head men are divorcing themselves from the national committees indicates the winning convention will be held at Reno.

Smith and Roosevelt are as friendly as a wire brush and a sore scalp. Borah and Hoover are that way. But not about each other.

It's the old gag. I'll go my way and you go my way, too. The result is exactly what happened to the Royal Irish Orchestra of Dublin. Every musician wanted to be the leader and even the drummer bought himself a high hat.

Don't let anybody tell you that the people lack a leader.

That ain't the trouble. We've got too many leaders who lack people.

2300 Killed in Johnstown Flood 43 Years Ago

St. Michael, Pa., May 31 (AP)—Children romp in the streets of St. Michael while old-timers recall the great disaster 43 years ago from which this mining community was brought into being.

This was the bed of the South Fork dam—play spot of Pittsburgh ironmasters—from which the waters roared May 31, 1889, to sweep the valley of the Conemaugh to destruction in the nationally known "Johnstown flood."

WALLS GIVE WAY

Boats moved gracefully over the placid waters in the green of some of the Allegheny mountain's highest peak.

But after days of rain the water in the dam rose, muddy and menacing, to the top of its breastworks. Then the walls gave way.

John Hoy, Pennsylvania locomotive engineer, speeding past in an "empty" engine, saw the break of the dam and sent his "iron horse," whistle screeching, down into the valley.

Frantic residents rushed from their homes with the cry, "To the hills—dam has burst!"

The wall of water, rumbling down the valley, sweeping houses, schools, churches, locomotives, even the big roundhouse at Conemaugh, before it, submerged the city of Johnstown, there to complete the work of destruction.

$2300 LOST LIVES

Two thousand, three hundred persons lost their lives and property damage was estimated at more than $10,000,000.

Johnstown has never forgotten the flood, but stout hearts rebuilt the fallen city. The steel industry gave it new life blood and mining companies began removing great quantities of coal from the giant hills.

The site of the dam became one of the active centers of the bituminous industry. Miners moved their families into mountain settlements or built new towns.

St. Michael was one of these.

Six Die in Explosion

Marseilles, May 31 (AP)—Six workmen were killed and ten seriously injured today in an explosion at an aluminum works in Gardanne, near here.

WIFE OF CURTIS IS FOUND DEAD

Philadelphia, May 31 (AP)—Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, wife of the widely-known Philadelphia newspaper and magazine publisher, was found dead in bed at the Jefferson Hospital early today.

She had been at the hospital for about a week to be near Mr. Curtis, who is reported recovering from what was regarded as a serious heart attack.

Mrs. Curtis had been a sufferer from a heart ailment for some time. She was the publisher's second wife, they having married August 2, 1910. Her first husband was Harrison M. Pillsbury, of Muskegon, Mich. Before her first marriage was Kate Stanwood Cutter, and was born in Bangor, Me.

Beside Mr. Curtis, Mrs. Curtis is survived by two daughters, nine grand children, a sister and a brother.

Chicago, May 31—Women who don't care for the summer wind-blown bob may do their hair in a diagonal parting this season.

Flying Pastor Gets Ideas for Sermons From Upper Ether

Minneapolis, May 31 (AP)—A new use for the air has been found.

The Rev. James C. Brown, a Minneapolis pastor, who has been flying around for four years and now owns his own plane, believes the upper atmosphere is the ideal place to plan sermons.

"The higher one goes the broader the horizon and all the mean things of life fade away and the soul gets a chance to expand," the clergyman explained. "I get ideas when I go up."

His congregation has elected him to lifetime tenure.

Japs Ring Down War Curtain at Shanghai

Shanghai, May 31 (AP)—The curtain descended today on the most violent chapter in Shanghai's history when three army transports sailed for Japan, carrying the last of the Japanese expedition force of 100,000.

The only Japanese troops now remaining are a force of bluejackets numbering about 2500.

ARREST JUROR IN BANK TRIAL

New York, May 31 (AP)—A mistrial seemed forecast today in the trial of Isidor J. Kresel, former counsel of the closed Bank of the United States, when it was learned a juror, Joseph J. Cohen had been placed in custody by the district-attorney's office.

Action was taken as result of a visit the juror paid Sunday to Kresel's home in Scarsdale, N. Y.

Counsel for Kresel, including John W. Davis, agreed with Asst. Dist.-Atty. Wallace to have a mistrial called, but Supreme Court Justice Harris ordered a recess until late today when he will decide on the matter.

Millions of 'Hoppers Put on Funeral Pyre

The pests had congregated on an irrigation canal waiting until their wings got a bit stronger to ravage the grain fields. The farmers spent a da, shoveling the hoppers out of the creek, carting them away, putting them in huge piles and burning them.

ED WYNN, NEW SENSATION OF THE MICROPHONE, SPENDS HOURS PREPARING LAUGHS

Artist Works Hard to Put Hits Over

By N. F. T.

Those who prepare properly are seldom surprised when what they wish to happen actually takes place. That's not so much philosophy as it is fact. Since young men go to college, prize-fighters train, as do baseball teams aiming to win out over others, radio lesser lights may well consider the matter of spending more time getting ready for accomplishment in a big way on the air.

• • •

One very screamingly funny fellow has something to say on the subject which is as amazing as it is sensible. Ed Wynn, recent sensation of the air, has taken hold of his microphone work with a will.

• • •

CAREFUL CALCULATION

He figures his time at the sound box during each half hour broadcast is 18 minutes. This he calculates will produce from 48 to 52 laughs. To achieve these it is found necessary to spend 44 hours in script preparation, rehearsal and revision. He puts in every minute of it hard at work, too.

• • •

While Ed Wynn is modest to a degree, he is by the same token, not at all surprised that his radio efforts have triumphed.

• • •

SUMMER SILENCE

Well, Mert and Marge dropped off for the summer on Friday night. Morton Downey, Tony Wons and Jacques Renard with their Quarter Hour said aurevoir Saturday night. Sherlock Holmes drama, Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit are taking vacations during June. Many others are also scheduled for suspension.

• • •

Talk about optimism—Columbia Broadcasting System rates for Station WABC in New York, are being raised June 15th and an hour will cost $150 more than it does now—imagine!

• • •

POPULARITY PROOF

Just as expected, Ben Bernie is knocking 'em cold, hot and medium since his Keith Theater opening here Saturday. Everything is in readiness for his nation-wide program tonight and a special police escort will accompany the "Old Maestro" and all his lads to and from the theater to WNAC studios

• • •

Some university should annex Ben for a faculty appointment, making him Professor of Personality.

LOCAL LATHER

Alice O'Leary, Medford "mike" lady who copped Paul Whiteman audition honors, is an artist listeners will read about and hear more and more concerning as time goes on . . . All discussions having to do with Kate Smith hitting the Hub for a personal appearance, seem definitely closed. There's little likelihood that the big gal may be seen hereabouts for a time . . . Thanks to the local station staffer who passed word along about Tony Wons, who it develops is rumored as liable to transfer his poetic affections and drawl over to NBC halls before many suns rise and set . . . Subscriber S. L. McM. of Malden discounts much "colyum" sincerity, writing a stiff note which says: "Radio writers like to rap radio artists just so admirers of said artist will protest by mail, thus proving to the newspaper bosses they have a vigorous broadcast ue critic. This isn't going to work any longer, however. Listeners are wise to the scheme . . . There's an patron who wrote, at the same time saying nobody would . . . Our good friend didn't quite bring down upon the nail's head. Let it's another letter much appreciated even though not one to file under "fan" mail exactly. . . . Hum and Strum are out chasing baseballs these mornings, getting practice inside the Fenway Park fi. ces.

Personalities of the Air

Stray Thought No. 28: With all the commercial p'grams leaving the air, b'dcasters'll have to get parrots, riveting machines and T. N. T. to fill in for the absent blurbs.

There's talk of having radios attached to husbands so wives can check up on their movements.

But so long as sponsors expandingly exaggerate about their products, there's no reason why husbands can't tell tall stories as to their whereabouts.

England sends out a pair of p'grams tomorrow: first, the English Derby will be NBCed at 9:40 a. m. And at 4:45 via CBS Ambassador Andrew Mellon will be heard in an address to the Anglo-American banquet of the English Speaking Union . . . Lowell Thomas will return to his WBZ at 6:45 spot again June 13, but this time for an oil sponsor . . . Joe Rines isn't on speaking terms with anyone these days—doctor's orders that he keep sshh and let his ailing larynx heal . . . If Eleanor Talcott accepts she has a 1-a-wk. commercial up to WCSH, Portland. But train fare would wipe out the profits . . . The "coke" soft drink p'gram has said adios to NBC. Probably figuring that in the hot months folks don't HAVE to be reminded to imbibe . . . .

3 Civil War Vets Enact "Spirit of 63"

Chicago, May 31 (AP)—The Spirit of '63 walked proudly up Michigan blvd.

Three veterans of the war of the states refused to ride in the Memorial Day parade, insisting on marching. Two toted brave young men's fifes and the third beat a lusty drum. They were grey as a trifle balding and a bit feeble with the years—but they marched.

Woman Saves Life of Pastor in Fire

Mooring Port, La., May 31 (AP)—Mrs. Harry Bonham's reaction to the theory that women are the weaker sex must like would be a distinct pity.

When Pierson Curries house caught fire—and the parson's three sleeping—Mrs. Bonham was the next down ran into the burning house pulled the minister out of bed and dragged him outside just as the roof came tumbling down.

RKO ENTRANTS AWAIT TEST

Arrangements have been completed with the management of the Park Central Hotel at New York whereby the winners of the RKO Opportunity Revue at RKO Keith's Theater the week of June 13 will be the hotel's guests during the two weeks of rehearsals for the big Annual Revue which will open the RKO circuit of vaudeville for the season.

A committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce will be asked to make the preliminary selections and it will be announced [illegible] for everyone who has applied to be there.

It is not too late even at this date to make application for entry in the contest.

"That's What John the Orator Said—"

By THE MASKED REPORTER

Before I go into this, let me remind you that Friday the Boston Evening American was tipped by me that Capt. John M. Anderson and Lieut. Stephen J. Gillis had been torn from their moorings in Berkeley st. and sent down into Dorset Row to see what was stopping the ticking.

In line with his duties [illegible] Masked Reporter followed up the [illegible] and made the round of the [illegible] doors search [illegible] one way and [illegible] of information. Many [illegible] was without expecting [illegible] unusual. So [illegible] for the [illegible] three years there [illegible] people were [illegible] and [illegible] was something [illegible] there would have been cheers.

Well, I met my good friend Dan the philosopher former partner of Rigoba, John and a man who usually doesn't drop his coin no matter how tough the breaks in the beat of theater and

So I put it right up to Dan.

"Who is John, the Orator?" I asked Dan.

"Tack! Tack! Tack!" said Dan, the philosopher, who can do it well with those teeth. "You know Johnnie Anderson, the general of the White Lily Squad! You were the conference that was held in the corner suite on the sixth floor of the white building in Berkeley st.—the suite with the Venetian blind?"

"Could you imagine?" I told Dan, the philosopher.

FLOOR LANTERNS

"Well, they set the lanterns in the middle of the floor for illumination when the Venetian blinds were drawn," said Dan the philosopher, "and there was Corporal Scanlon, Leo 'bring-me-the-evidence' Schwartz, 'John the Orator,' Genial Mike the super and Gene—and they got right down to business.

"Well, I'm telling you something, by the way? Gene called on the boys to tell their story of the Hoof o' Theatre Island, and Leo had his say first. Bernie said very little. Gene himself said a few words, and Genial Mike sat there, taking it all in—and believe me, not missing a thing."

WORDS OF WISE

From the oratorical platform came words of wisdom from "John the Orator," Dan the philosopher revealed. He told the commissioner this wasn't a serious condition of police procedure, as a matter he said. "I could clean up these places and I could do it in ten days. It's just a matter of police procedure. First principles of police procedure, as a matter of fact! That's what John the Orator said."

"That's what Capt. Anderson said?" I queried.

"Are you mugging me?" said Dan the philosopher.

"Anyway, the conference went on and on."

Dan the philosopher declared things came to a head when Gene told the super to go down and scratch a pen and the super went down and scratched a pen and put "John the Orator" and Steve out on the bricks—Division Four—sort of putting "John the Orator's own personal assignment right between his teeth with Steve Gallo keeping step and using that headquarters diplomacy.

$4700 WAS LOST

"Well, what's the answer, Dan?" I asked. "Are they going to close up all the spots in ten days?"

"Well, you can bet all the broken hearts in Japan that here's a spot that has already lost $4700 in the last six months, but there's a row in the bank yet before the place will close."

But there was no police on guard [illegible]

It's as though the tobaccos were "welded" together...

It "welds" together different kinds of the several varieties of tobacco... many types of Bright tobacco, a great many types of Burley tobacco and numerous grades of Turkish tobacco.

• • •

THIS "WELDING" TOGETHER—or Cross-Blending—permits every kind of tobacco used in the Chesterfield blend to partake of the best qualities of every other type. Each tobacco is thus made to yield its finest flavors.

• • •

CROSS-BLENDING takes all these pleasing flavors and aromas and combines them into one—the Chesterfield taste. And we think you will agree that it is a far better taste . . . worth all the extra care that Chesterfield takes to get it.

• • •

EVERYTHING that money can buy and that science knows about is done to make CHESTERFIELD milder and taste better.

AMERICAN PRIMER REVEALED GLARING FAULTS OF OUR INDUSTRIAL SYSTEM

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

YOU HAVE HEARD of the famous Russian Soviet primer the little book which explains the Five Year Plan to the Russian children, including illustrations of the failure of America to have any plan at all. The famous illustration, about competition in the hat industry, for instance. Translated into American, it has served as the text for many a sermon this past year.

PROF. ROGERS

Now an ingenious American has worked out a kind of American primer, to explain to us what the depression means and how we can lift ourselves out of it by our bootstraps. And knowing how dependent the American public has come to be upon the illustrated tabloid, with its news in picture form, and upon the spoken news-reel film, the author has made it a picture book

A Primer in Pictures

The book, just published, is the invention and work of Charles Cross, is called "A Picture of America and is published by Simon & Shuster, those ingenious young men who have the habit of rather setting the fashion for novelties in books.

The book is hardly cheap enough to find its way into the hands of the 7,000,000 unemployed, for whom it is apparently intended, but if it falls into the hands of the men responsible for the unemployment—the big business men and politicians—it may serve the author's turn just as well. Henry Adams used to say that the book which reached the right 50,000 would be quite as influential as if it reached 500,000.

The book is a primer in pictures, actual photographs of people and industries, which accompany pages of simple, hard-hitting facts and argument dealing with some of the recognized causes of our business difficulties. Pictures showing wheat being burned and men in breadlines, men without overcoats and cotton being destroyed, surplus food being dumped in the ocean to keep up prices apartments-to-let and homeless people, closed banks and piles of gold in other banks and so on.

Then a page listing the depressions in the United States from 1837 to 1932 on an average of one every seven years. Then a series of pages showing how our elaborate methods of doing business raise the selling price of goods far above the production price; three cents worth of labor in the 10 cent loaf of bread; $6 worth of labor in the $22 suit; $25 worth of labor in a $100 piece of furniture. Summing up, 25 billion dollars' worth of labor is inflated into 70 billion dollars of selling costs.

Profits Boosted at Cost of Labor

Then the book proceeds to take a package all packed and ready to leave the factory, passing through the hands of the sales manager, the advertising department, the bank, the wholesaler, the jobber, transportation, the big store, the small store, the door-to-door seller, the various steps in our complicated and wasteful method of distribution. Then there is a rather comic series of photographs representing steam-yachts, coaching parties, roulette wheels and sirens on the edge of expensive swimming pools—representing the wicked "profits" from the system.

The next pages show how profits can be increased by cutting down on labor costs, with some 30 pictures showing machines that displace anywhere from a dozen to a thousand laborers. Over against these in heavy black type the captions: "Out of every 16 factory jobs one had vanished somewhere between 1919 and 1928. Out of every seven railroad jobs one had vanished. Out of every seven farm jobs one had vanished."

Graphic pages trace the course of the three years' depression; a double page of newspaper headlines, another double page of news stories—the picture darkens, the camera's eye closes, the picture ends.

The latter half of the book is labelled "America—As It Might Be." I confess that I did not find this half of the book anywhere nearly so impressive or convincing as the first half. It is easy enough to present actual pictures and actual statistics. It is less easy to illustrate the way out, and to prophesy in a way equally convincing.

One thing that bothers me is that all the pictures of the clean, happy, well-fed, efficient, laborious America of the future are also photographs. If they had been idealistic drawings one might have believed them—or not. But being photographs, one can't help remembering that they were taken in the same America as the earlier pictures of misery and unemployment. The same America, bad as it is, planless, incompetent and suffering, can also furnish these pictures of beautiful factories, great fertile fields, pleasant cottages, leisurely men and happy children.

$5000 Income for Every Family

This part of the book develops three ideas: First, the speeding up of production whereby every family might enjoy the equivalent of a $5000 income; second, the elimination of the waste of distribution and middle-man salesmanship, whereby goods would go from factory almost directly to consumer by means of central district stores, one to a neighborhood, no duplication (You will find this same store in Edward Bellamy's old Utopia dream of collectivism, "Looking Backward"); third, shorter and shorter hours, as machines continue to be invented, with no wage cut.

There is the plan. How to arrive there? More pictures. Socialism-in-Capitalism will not work; Fascism seems to work for a time then fails and becomes Communism; Communism works but only with violence, bloodshed and deprivation; but Socialism will do it quietly (and apparently instantaneously). References to workingmen's apartments in Vienna; the old familiar story of the Milwaukee city administration, as if it were the only solvent municipality in America. A page or two of exhortation—fadeout!

If Norman Thomas and the Socialist party of America intends to use the book as a campaign document, for which it was obviously written, it is going to cost them plenty. It's a pretty gorgeous and expensive propaganda for a party that usually has to rely on job printing. It's a good campaign document, no doubt of that; ingenious, striking, arresting and effective in its headline simplicity. That is, the first half of the book is all right. The last half, the constructive half, is a bit vague. I'd like to see a Socialist Congress tackle it as a working proposition. Mr. Hoover and Mr. Garner and their Congress would not, in comparison, look quite so simple, I fancy. But it's a great campaign document!

Time to Retire

Police Capt. Michael J. Goff of Division 18, Hyde Park, who retired today on a pension at the age of 61 after being in the department since 1893.

CAPT. GOFF IS RETIRED

Ten days ahead of the date scheduled Capt. Michael J. Goff of Div 18 Hyde Park, retires from the Boston police department tonight after 39 years service, it was learned today.

On a leave of absence supposed to last until June 10, Capt. Goff appeared at headquarters today and admitted his retirement papers had been signed by Mayor Curley, taking effect at 5:45 p. m.

"I might as well have it over with now," said the veteran police official.

Born in Cambridge Jan. 1, 1888, he was appointed a reserve man and assigned to Division 16 on Dec. 11, 1893. Two years later he was made a patrolman, and advanced through sergeant and lieutenant to captain, to which he was promoted Dec 20, 1913.

Capt. Goff took command of Division 15, Charlestown, when he became one of the most popular skippers" the district ever had. On Aug. 16, 1929, he was transferred to Division 11, and on Oct 10, 1930, to Hyde Park. He retires on half pay of $2000

PAYS $20 FINE TO KEEP DOG

His dog means more to him than a mere fine—and so William E Kinney attorney, living at 1600 Washington st., West Newton appeared in Newton court today and successfully pleaded that he be allowed to retract his agreement to send his biting dog out of the city limits. The dog has been a subject of long controversy by neighbors who allege it is a biter although he has apparently never bitten anyone. Kinney decided he missed and needed the animal and would rather have it home and take the fine which Judge Bacon suspended in view of the agreement.

The judge then fined Kinney $20 but after he had paid and left the courthouse discovered that $10 was the maximum fine. Judge Bacon then ordered $10 forwarded to Kinney.

Father of 7 Held on Counterfeit Charge

After being held as a suspicious person over the week-end, John Scruto, 44, of Bainbridge st Charlestown, father of seven was turned over to federal authorities today in connection with an alleged attempt of a 7-year-old daughter to pass a counterfeit bill in a Bunker Hill st. store

Creosote-Soaked Span Roils a Dense Pall Over New Haven and Rapid Transit Lines

Town-bound commuters on Boston shore trains were delayed and riders on the rapid transit system rose in smoke-filled cars today as the result of a fire in the planking of the Savin Hill ave. bridge, at the height of the morning rush hour.

A fireman, riding on the rapid transit, saw the fire after the train had passed under the bridge. He stopped at the Columbia station and sounded an alarm. A second alarm was sounded later.

The fire believed to have been started by a spark from a locomotive, filled the New Haven and the Boston Elevated right of way with smoke, and the rapid transit trains which continued to operate received the benefit of the smoke while passing under the bridge.

Railroad traffic was halted, however, while firemen fought the blaze which ate well into the planking, with an estimated damage of $5000.

After the fire had been extinguished, the bridge was ordered closed to traffic for at least 24 hours until an examination could be made to determine to what extent it had been weakened.

WOMAN DYING, DRIVER HELD

An alleged hit-and-run driver, Michael Moshillo, of 174 Webster st., East Boston was arrested in his home today by state police

He was originally charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on Mrs. Adelia Desmond of 32 Valley st., Malden, said to be dying in a Lowell hospital as a result of being felled by an automobile in Billerica.

Moshillo, according to police, was driving a car registered to Mrs. Charles Mandia of 22 Bennington st., East Boston, who, with her husband, was exonerated of any connection with the accident.

In Lowell district court, Moshillo was held in $2000 for the grand jury on charges of operating so as to endanger lives and safety and with leaving the scene of an accident without identifying himself. He pleaded not guilty.

Ex-South Boston Folk at Services

Hundreds of one-time residents of South Boston and former members of St. Augustine's parish returned to South Boston yesterday to attend the services held in the old chapel in the cemetery at Sixth and Dorchester sts.

Thief Robs Police Lieutenant of Gate, But Scorns It

Despite the fact that Thomas M Sharry is a lieutenant of Somerville police, and lives at 63 Bow st., diagonally across the street from headquarters, someone "lifted" the iron gate off his fence.

Patrolman Ricco Rossi found a gate in the doorway at 379 Somerville ave., some distance away, and took it to headquarters.

Lieut. Sharry, who is connected with the traffic bureau, saw the gate.

"Heck," he said, "that's mine. And so it was.

SMOKY BRIDGE BLAZE TIES UP TRAFFIC

BEGINS TASK IN GALLIVAN'S DIVISION

Word Goes Out to District's Biggest Seller That His Customers Will Be Arrested

Passing up headquarters entirely, Capt. John M. Anderson of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, and Lieut. Stephen J. Gallin, the police commissioner's private prober, went directly into the Lagrange st. division today on their two-man liquor mopping assignment.

Capt. Anderson, assigned last Friday, has announced his intention of freezing out the division's biggest and most defiant liquor seller by stationing police at the speakeasy entrance and arresting all the customers coming out.

Up to today, however the only excitement in the division has been a series of raids conducted by Capt Jeremiah Gallivan, over whose head Capt. Anderson and Lieut Gallin were sent into the district.

Commissioner Hultman had no comment to make on the situation today when he was queried

SAY OTHERS WORSE

Certain other officials and members of the rank and file themselves are beginning to let out sub rosa comments on the unique situation and one official today laughingly referred to it as "another police experiment."

Most of the men in the department who will venture an opinion declare that the move is only a gesture in Division Four and as such conditions are worse in other police divisions throughout the city.

They regard it also as a sign the police commissioner is worn a hedge, that he must close which is to follow they declare, all that Capt. Anderson has done or can do.

It is known, however, that Capt. Anderson has had several assigned to him in the district and there were attempting today to get sales of beer from the 1m stores especially in defiance.

Meanwhile today it was learned that federal liquor raiders had planned an invasion of the Lagrange st. division on Saturday but had held off because of the Capt Anderson and Lieut Gallin assignment and had turned their attention instead to South Boston where they raided a brewery.

MUM ON MOP-UP ORDER

Federal Prohibition Administrator Jonathan S. Lyons was asked today if there had been any orders issued from Washington to "mop-up Division," but he declared he had no plans to give out.

"We will co-operate with the police as we always did, but we will go on with our own work," he said.

United States Attv. Elihu D. Stone was in conference with Mr. Henry Godenough, assistant U. S. Lewis, but at the conclusion Mr. Goodenough said he was in ignorance of any "mopping up" plan.

It it understood, however, that about 100 persons who have been identified with liquor running and selling locally by federal "undercover men," may be called before the federal grand jury next month.

PLANE RACE TO SEE DYING SON

In a race against death, Richard P. Drew of 69 Dover rd., West Hartford, Ct., took off from Boston airport today in a plane piloted by William Tanner, in hope of gaining the bedside of Drew's nine-year-old son before he dies.

On Wednesday his son was operated on for mastoid but his condition was considered so excellent yesterday that the father felt safe in leaving for Boston to sail today for Bjaerenburg, N. S. on business.

Just before he was due to sail, however he received word that the boy's condition had taken a turn for the worse. He made reservations on the private passenger plane to Hartford but arrived in a taxicab five minutes too late.

Then he chartered a plane from the Curtiss-Wright service and took the air immediately.

GUNMEN ON WAY BACK TO BOSTON

John Long and Robert Lohs, alleged leaders of a Hudson automobile theft ring, who defaulted $50,000 bonds following arraignment here, were brought back from Montreal today by State Detectives Joseph Ferrari and Joseph Creccio.

Walter Gallagher, a private detective, two weeks ago led police to the hideout of the men in Montreal, only to have the pair abscond their way to freedom. Two persons were injured during the shooting.

Today Montreal authorities waived prosecution of charges against the two men and the trip to Boston was started immediately.

Police Seek Kin of Man Slain in Detroit

A telegram from a Detroit girl today caused police to search for relatives of Joseph Comber, alias Joyce, killed last Friday in that city.

The telegram was signed "Doris Switzer," but she did not reveal her relationship with Comber or any reason for being interested. The message said that Comber was killed by the police, that his parents were dead but that he had a brother here

DRUNK ARRESTS NUMBER 263

Holiday week-end imbibers caught by police numbered 263 for Greater Boston and of this number only five were women

The East Dedham st. police station chalked up a real record for drunkenness arrests, with 107 to the South End police depot's credit.

Of the 263 taken into custody other Sunday or yesterday, 192 were released and 71 were held for court. Of the East Dedham station's [illegible] 26 were to go to court.

DEDHAM YOUTH SUICIDE IN WEST

A suicide note pinned to a tie led police of Oakland, Cal., today to start dragging Lake Merritt for the body of William DeMarrie 22, of East Dedham.

"I have committed suicide from the bridge" said the note, which was in pencil on the back of an envelope.

It was signed "William DeMarrie, High st., East Dedham" and it was said that his mother might be notified at that address.

Dedham police investigated and said he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo DeMarrie, 111 of home in April, 1930, to seek work in California and his mother last heard from him on Mothers Day of this year. He has six brothers and sisters.

FIVE MEN HELD IN BEER RAID

Five men, arrested during a raid on a brewing plant in East Second st., South Boston, Saturday afternoon, were each held in $500 bail today when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Francis J. Goode, charged with liquor violations.

They were George J. Tom[illegible] alias James McCarthy, of E[illegible] Daniel J. Doherty, alias Dan Lydon, of East Sixth st.; James A. Carey, alias Leo A. Sullivan, of [illegible] Sixth st.; John J. Sheehan, alias John J. Sheehan, of West Sixth st., all in South Boston, and Edmund J. O'Brien of Humphrey st., Dorchester. Their cases were continued to June 10.

During the raid, witnessed by 3000 jeering and cheering persons the federal men seized 680 pint bottles of alleged Canadian ale, 295 five gallon cans of malt, 1000 gallons of beer malt and four 60-gallon vats.

Boy Badly Hurt by Home Brew Blast

BIRTHS INCREASE, MARRIAGES WANE

City Registrar James J. Mulvey revealed today that Boston's population is growing much faster this year. As a matter of record, 6783 baby boys and girls arrived in this city up to Memorial Day, as compared with 6422 during the first five months of 1933.

Marriages have fallen behind last years figures by 205. Registrar Mulvey reported that 2258 couples have married to that date this year, as against 2183 during the corresponding period of 1933.

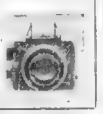
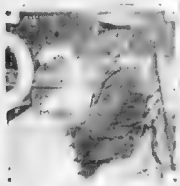
Visiting the Swan Boats With the Candid Camera



By CANDID CAMERA

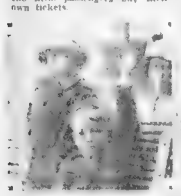
The holiday spirit was in the air. So I visited the Boston Common and Public Gardens. Here we had a peek at society folk, professional people and folk from all walks of life. They all enjoy the flowers, the lake and the restful spots.



Meet the "SKIPPER." If you haven't seen this man at work go over to the pond at the Public Gardens where I grabbed this picture. There is power aplenty in the legs of Michael Flaherty. He is the motive power for the Swan Boats.

Here I grabbed Ann Brown, of Fairhaven, Mass., patting the brow of the great wooden swan on the stern of one of the boats.

You must have a ticket for the ride around the pond. Robert Trilley is the salesman. He scatters smiles—a couple of them as the little passengers buy their own tickets.



This is serious business for James Berger of Cambridge. I waited a long time to have him smile for me. His more congenial pal is Paul James. Paul came down from Lexington for the ride.

CYNTHIA WATERS

Although in the class of one of the smaller shows, it is always so delightfully intimate, a sort of family affair, that it is outstanding for that reason . . .

We like to hob-nob with the Wests, the Saltonstalls, the Almys, as the clans gather for another Memorial Day classic . . . we like to watch the talented Miriam Winslow take "blues" as casually as she picks up the reins . . . the fine riding of Helen Danforth and the expert horsemanship of the Scudder girls, Sally and Betty.

• • •

We like to see George S. West, a BIG man in every sense of the word, stroll around the paddock like an English squire, and his pretty wife in "draped" riding skirt take in the whole scene and her many friends with a sweet IRISH smile . . .

• • •

Many of the classes were quite "tame" without the brilliant riding of Rosamond Almy, Mrs. Robert B. Almy, who chose to remain a spectator this year from the top of her sport model, with the good-looking George Timmons from Groton, her charming mother, Mrs. Andrew Adie, and a group of friends.

We were greeted by Cynthia Waters, Barbara Holdsworth and a friend as we entered the ringside; Miss Waters very chic in black and white print, and Miss Holdsworth sweetly pretty in a wide-brimmed hat and printed silk. On our questionnaire . . . our usual one of "What are you planning to do this summer?" . . . Cynthia told us that she, her mother and sister and Dorothy Harding are sailing for Europe on June 15 . . . spending six weeks in England and then on to the Continent. CITY WED — Enthralling Story of Modern Married Life — By Faith Baldwin

Classmate Is Real Pal to Nevis

EVEN FRESH limes and pineapples pall, and Nevis, lying before they came to the factory settlement, had ceased to be enthralled over the prospect of picking bananas from her own trees, and, besides, so long as she lived in Porto Rico, did she develop a taste for mangoes . . . they were flavored, said Nevis, "exactly like turpentine."

Once they went to the local hot springs which had wet heat, sulphur water and magnificent ferns to recommend it. And once, over a Sunday, crossing a bit from the mainland, they went to Culebra, a barren and yet romantic island, dotted here and there with the huts of fishermen and the tiny homes of the rich. Here, in the past, pirates had been wont to lurk. Here, in caves and hidden coves, were the lairs of the buccaneers who preyed in the days of sailing ships upon the treasure ships of Spain. Here, today, were gaunt rocks and ferns growing; glimpses of a blue-green sea; tiny houses perched in perilous security, and the sudden on-coming of an on-cart around a corner which startled them to indignation, and the spread of their brakes as the native driver applied them. Beauty was stuffed full of it! Beauty which she acknowledged but which left her cold. "We just don't belong here," she told herself in dismay.

SOCIAL LIFE

The social life of the settlement went on, dinners, a dance, Homesick boys telling Nevis about the girl back home and becoming sentimental after four drinks; older men, with sallow, malaria-ridden, hopeless wives living in the dark corners; men still older with half a lifetime of service in the company behind them, and a pension to look forward to. Nevis couldn't . . . couldn't . . . couldn't be . . . couldn't . . . couldn't . . . couldn't

DON'T FOOLISHLY WED A 'GOLD DIGGER,' WARNS MISS FAIRFAX

The Boy Loves Her Dearly, But All She Seems to Want Is Jewelry, He Writes

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have gone with a certain girl for some time, and have learned to love her very dearly but it seems as if he doesn't care anything for me. I write her and she doesn't answer my letter and she refuses to make dates. Lately, she has told me that she can't go with me any more. I cannot afford to make those presents often, she doesn't seem to care about me. Do you think there is any chance that she would learn to love me in time? DEVOTED

Dear Devoted: From what you tell me about this young lady, she sounds to me like a "gold-digger," in good and regular standing, and I think you would be very foolish to waste your time on her.

Is She More Than a Friend?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A young man who interests me very much has lately introduced me to a girl, Miss —, who I think is a dear friend of his. Not knowing definitely, should I wait and see, then try to forget him if she is more? He is very handsome and fascinating, though of a nationality that I hate, but in his case I don't care about his nationality. A.

Dear A.: It might not be well to delay too long, my dear, in deciding on the status of the young lady to whom you were introduced. You may find it harder to forget the interesting young man than you suppose, for not always are our feelings entirely bridable.

Who Sits Beside Him?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My fiance took his mother, his sister, a friend and myself for an automobile ride Sunday afternoon. I sat in front with my fiance. Wasn't that the proper thing to do? My mother-in-law-to-be insisted that it was her place to sit in front with her son. Which one is right? DOT

Dear Dot—There is no strict rule of etiquette about where you sit in a motor, and naturally one would think the young man would sit with his fiance for your own happiness. I hope your mother-in-law-to-be is not going to be annoyingly possessive about her son.

Wants to Give Her a Permanent

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 16 years old and the boy friend is 19. We are not engaged because we both know we are too young. I am letting my hair grow and he wants to give me the money to get a permanent wave. Would it be wrong for me to take this money from him? V. R.

Dear V. R.: It's not considered the "nice" thing to take money from a young man for any purpose whatever. Better do without the permanent until you can afford to pay for it yourself.

An Unhappy Situation

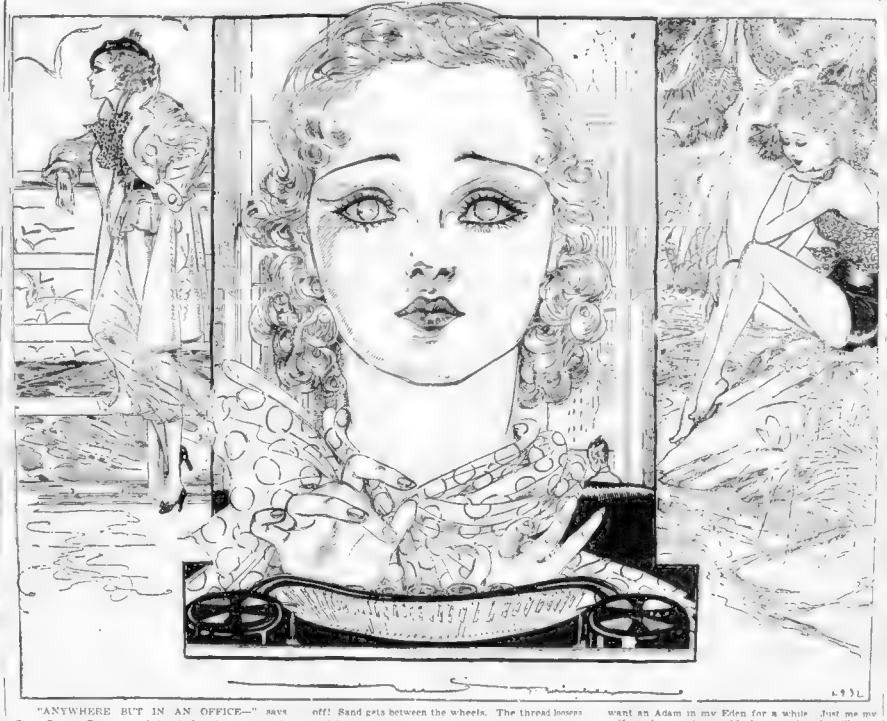
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

The man I am in love with and who is in love with me broke our engagement because, as he said, he would be unable to marry for so many years to come that it would be unfair to me. I have a good job and wanted to keep it so that we could marry but he will not listen to this arrangement. And yet he will not let me alone. Weeks and weeks go utterly miserable that it breaks my heart all over again. VIRGINIA

Dear Virginia: The man should realize that it is very unkind to him to continually reopen this question and make you so unhappy. If he is unable to marry and refuses to draw an allotment whereby you could contribute to the support of the home, I think that he is doing to do would be to break off definitely with him.

WHERE I WOULD BE!

Drawn by Nell Brinkley



"ANYWHERE BUT IN AN OFFICE—" says Steno-Susie. Dreamy-eyed, touched with spring madness.

This is the time of the year—and do you notice that the spring fever gets so much WORSE before it gets better?—the time of the year when the steady old machinery gets off the track. Whirr-whirr it has gone all year long, with very little complaint. But the dutiful and dogged operator suddenly looks up and glimpses a bit of startlingly young blue sky over the wedge-shaped cut outs of the city setting and a handle flies off! Sand gets between the wheels. The thread loosens and loops into a wild tangle. The operator watches the sky with hanging hands, gone back to the things of the earth. His duty suddenly has seemed an old-man-of-the-sea load that he is foolish to carry.

So Steno-Susie and all the other Susies who delve in the city ponder the travel-brochures and ads, with their enchanting, spell-binding pictures, and see their work through a cob-web of dew-bejeweled dreams—dreams of "going somewhere." "Anywhere," says Susie, "just so it is AWAY from town. I don't even want an Adam in my Eden for a while. Just me myself—and a country-world changing her dress!"

On this time of the year when a mild city unrest swells to an uproar in the sensitive ear! When a dullness inhabits the streets. When the food of the city "places to dine" tastes exactly alike in each of the hundreds of commissariats. When the breath of the sea air at the harbor and the scent of the country in the parkways are maddening and divine, for the urge they awaken and the pictures they summon.

Come summer and vacation time. For Steno-Susie can hardly wait.

NELL BRINKLEY.

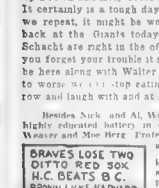
PUNCHING THE BAG ON THIS AND THAT

Well folks, it might be worse. We'll admit we felt a bit low going out in the back yard and eating worms. All our ball clubs are well decorated yesterday. Our erstwhile league leading Braves, following the disastrous series in Philadelphia, came home to get it twice in the same place from the Giants. Our much touted Sox got a double barrelled socking from the Yanks. Harvard was done up Brown and Holy Cross gave Boston College an awful smacking. It certainly is a tough day when one of our teams can't win. But we repeat, it might be worse. The Braves are going out to get back at the Giants today, and if they don't, why Attack and Schacht are right in the offing. If there is anyone who can make you forget your trouble it is Nick and Al. The Gloom Chasers will be here along with Walter Johnson tomorrow. So if worse comes to worse we can stop eating worms and go out to Fenway Park tomorrow and laugh with and at Nick and Al.

Besides Nick and Al, Walter Johnson is toting into town the most highly educated battery in existence. We refer to Professor Monte Weaver and Moe Berg. Professor Weaver teaches algebra, trigonometry and higher mathematics in a Southern college in the winter time and serves a choice selection of geometrical shoots across the platter in the summer. Moe Berg is such a linguist he can cuss an umpire in seven languages. The first time Casey Stengel heard that he moped for three days. He finally wrote to Moe and asked the graduate of Princeton, Heidberg and a flock of other colleges if he would give him a correspondent's course in high and lifty cussing. Moe answered him in Sanscrit, or something or other, and poor Casey has been trying to figger it out ever since.



Along with the educated domes of Weaver and Berg, Walter Johnson is bringing along "some" ball club. If any team can stop these murderous Yanks it's the Senators. Weaver, Crowder, Brown, Fisher and Marberry all are pitching great ball. That Washington infield, Judge, Myer, Cronin and Bluege is smooth and frictionless and where will you find a better outfield than Reynolds, Manush and West? Johnson believes the Senators were "made" by the deal which sent "Bump" Hadley of Lynn and bad bad Jones to the White Sox in exchange for Reynolds. The Big Swede also says that Moe Berg has been one of the strongest cogs in the Washington machine. Chicago gave Moe his unconditional release. Thought he was through. Since then Berg has been backstopping sensationally for the Senators.

ORWELL IS 2-1 CHOICE IN DERBY

Epsom Downs, Eng., May 31 (AP)—All Britain was in the throes of its annual Derby excitement today.

[illegible]

An American colt, W. M. G. Singer's Orwell, winner of the two thousand guineas is quoted at 2 to 1, the shortest priced choice in recent years. Lord Derby's Mirage, the second choice is considered a better bet by a few to chance to win.

Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Lila Lee Co-Star in 'War Correspondent'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service
(Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.)

Los Angeles, May 31—That trio, Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Lila Lee, responsible for placing "Flight" among the profitable pictures of a year or so ago, will be together again. Harry Cohn has signed Lila to appear with Holt and Graves in "War Correspondent." Paul Sloane, recent addition to the Columbia staff of directors, will direct, and Jo Swerling is burning the midnight oil to get the required number of thrills.

Floyd Gibbons, eminent war correspondent and Hearst writer, inspired "War Correspondent" and Ralph Graves plays a modified Gibbons while Jack Holt is an American radio announcer disguised as a Chinese general. Miss Lee's role is not unlike the Charmaine of "What Price Glory."

Louella O. Parsons

In fact sounds as if Holt and Graves are booked for a McLaglen and Lowe duo.

Studio Highlights

Dorothy Jordan whose romance with Don Dillaway seems as cold as yesterday's newspaper has been signed by Charles Rogers for the leading feminine role in "10,000 Witnesses," a football story. This yarn precedes Madison Square Garden" and is being given an interesting cast including Phil Holmes, Charles Lane with Ralph Murphy directing. Paul Lukas, polished Hungarian actor, is glimpsed on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot. He has been put into the cast opposite Jack Gilbert and Virginia Bruce in "Downstairs." Cyril Gardner directs "The Invisible Man" with Boris Karloff, John L. Balderston and Garrett Ford did the adaptation. William Harr Zan has two jobs awaiting him in Hollywood. One in "Merry Go Round" and the other in "Animal Kingdom." Max Marcin is back from Japan. He has started "Dream Without End" for Paramount. It's from an Leslie Parrott story. He writes and directs.

Snapshots of Hollywood

JOAN BENNETT hand bandaged from a slight operation, at the WILLIAM GOETZ dinner. Both JOAN who starred in "Weekend Girl" and BILL GOETZ, who supervised it, arriving at the dinner after the preview. EDITH MAYER GOETZ, a charming hostess, was assisted in receiving her guests by her mother and L. B. MAYER. RAOUL WALSH and Lil. B. fought a bitter battle over an exciting game of casino. He left for New York Saturday. CONSTANCE BENNETT appeared in a summer dress that looked like nothing so much as a gay colored stick of candy. She had all the women asking where she bought it and paying through the nose for two weeks. Bill has had a lot of alimony trouble with Mrs. Olive Shaffer Bennett. Just when he thought everything was all right she up and sued him. He doesn't want to inflict a lot of alimony troubles on Miss Majors after he settles everything you can look for wedding bells. We all hope he will be happy for there are few people more loved than Bill Farnum.

Separation Near

The marriage of pretty Irish Catherine Perry and Owen Moore is reported not so happy as it was. No verification could be obtained from either one but it is whispered in excellent authority there is very likely to be a separation. Owen Moore was formerly married to Mary Pickford. He and Miss Perry have been married for about five years. Which is whispered as having told friends that things were not well. Owen Moore is Maurice Costello's favorite son-in-law. Dolores Costello Barrymore is in Paris just now. Maurice is finishing up a picture and expect to be back before November.

Hollywood Chatter

William Farnum has been seen at the fights in the Brown Derby and various other places with a young blonde. Now you know Bill cannot be seen in Hollywood with one thing with the same person without rumors starting. The blonde's name is Dahle Nagel according to my best information. William Farnum and Dahle will marry in about two weeks. Bill has had a lot of alimony trouble with Mrs. Olive Shaffer Bennett. Just when he thought everything was all right she up and sued him. He doesn't want to inflict a lot of alimony troubles on Miss Majors after he settles everything you can look for wedding bells. We all hope he will be happy for there are few people more loved than Bill Farnum.

Mayor James J. Walker of New York City is seen and heard in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, now at Loew's State, as he faces the Legislative Committee probing into the affairs of officials of the greatest city of the world of which Jimmy is the head. Thousands are shown awaiting his arrival at the County Court House and he is given a noisy reception. Then is first duel with Samuel Seabury chief counsel for the committee, the mayor emerges smiling and stops before the microphone long enough to indulge in a couple of wisecracks. Then he is shown at Madison Square Garden attending the graduation of 268 rookie policemen to whom he pointedly remarks that they must expect criticism and that their satisfaction must be in the fact that a man can only do his best and keep a clear conscience.

Big Month at the State

The installation of cooling plants and the changing habits of movie-goers has made a big change in the old theater tradition regarding summer. Instead of a let-down in show quality the minute June arrives, the new order of things is to show ever bigger and more attractive shows to combat the opposition of the outdoors and the heat. This year, Loew's State launches an exceptional season. It announces a big month for June month and promises to give movie fans every possible reason for not neglecting the screen the minute the outdoors beckons.

For the week beginning next Friday, the theater will present Robert Young, Margaret Perry, Lewis Stone and Myrna Loy in "New Morals for Old," screen version of the play "After All."

On Friday, June 10, will be inaugurated "Revival Week," during which will be shown four of the outstanding screen successes of the past year, to be determined by the vote of patrons during the next two weeks.

The final week offers Jean Harlow in the title role of Kathrine Brush's novel, "Red Headed Woman."

Dearest Anne

Before we know it, June first has a way of popping up on the alert air and before we are ready with our summer wardrobes. My visits through the shops this week has been so exciting, shopping for brides, for the smart girl graduate and for those lucky vacationists who will be off to the sea—the mountains in a few weeks. The stores are just brimming with tempting things—the Beauty Shops are fairly buzzing with activity, and the whole town has taken on that gala air, that June, the merry month seems to inspire in it, of us. First of all, Anne promises us a gay summer, with colors running the gamut of the rainbow, and fabrics unusually distinctive. Summer will look as cool as they will be to wear, which is a blessing for those of us who dread the warmer summer days. The new cutout models in shoes, such as the popular sandals, should be the scene of summer comfort in footwear. The new cutouts should also be popular, as they are designed to be cool, chic and economical. Fashion has turned back to the gay nineties for inspiration in millinery, and has brought back "Queen," a smart straw of that period. BANKS EAGER TO OBTAIN MORE SOUND LOANS

By B. C. Forbes

Let the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, the largest in America, reply to the nationwide deluge of complaints that banks are mercilessly squeezing borrowers and refusing to make new loans regardless of the soundness of the collateral offered.

"It is a popular but unsound assumption that the lending policy of banks generally has been and is unduly restrictive and that a more liberal policy on the part of the banks would immediately stimulate commercial and industrial activity and raise prices.

The truth of the matter is that the sound banks of the country are, for the most part, in a more liquid condition than they care to be; and they are in that condition primarily because there are too few businesses in a position to borrow and desirous of doing so under existing conditions. The banks, on the whole, would be very glad to make more commercial loans and to extend lines of credit to sound business organizations; but they must necessarily confine their extensions of credit to enterprises of assured soundness.

The failure of public buying to create a sufficient volume of sound commercial and industrial activity to warrant an expansion of bank loans has been the chief factor in retarding business rather than any reluctance on the part of bankers to extend credit. Banks generally would welcome an increase in the commercial paper eligible for rediscount as an added source of profit to themselves, as well as a stimulus to business. A resumption of normal purchasing by the public will be quickly followed by an expansion of bank loans. The latter must follow, but cannot precede such action.

Although no definite reversal of the downward trend of business activity at present has yet occurred, it is apparent that the decline in industrial operations and trade volumes from month to month has become slow and irregular, in contrast to the swift and disheartened recession that continued throughout the greater part of last year.

LOWER PRICES ARE THE RULE IN WALL ST.

New York, May 31—Trading was dull on the New York Stock Exchange today at the opening session, with important shares generally only slightly, if any, above their lows for the day in afternoon transactions.

Setbacks generally for active pivotal shares ran from 1 to 2 or more points.

U. S. STEEL LOWER.

U. S. Steel sold off over a point, but met with fair support. Issues off 2 or more at the same time included Du Pont, International Business Machines, Consolidated Gas, Delaware & Hudson and Allied Chemical. Drug was down 3.

Point or so recessions came for Union Carbide, New York & Harlem, Bethlehem, American Telephone, General Electric, Woolworth, Union Pacific, National Biscuit and National Power & Light.

Liggett & Myers preferred was off over 5. The rest were scattered rallying from time to time.

The bond market came back from its holiday today in a disjointed condition and prices of various securities slipped quietly into lower territory.

The railroads once more resumed their backslide of the sagging movement a number of earnings reports dropped from 1 to 3 points. The utilities and industrials were not far behind ,although special issues showed some resistance.

SOME SHORT SEEN

President Hoover's address to the Senate on economy and taxes brought some support after the break in the morning.

Stocks were pressed for sale up to the time of the announcement of the President's special message. This brought scattered buying into the list and slight recoveries were made.

The early reaction was led by American Telephone and Consolidated Gas, the former breaking 80 to the lowest level in 25 years and the latter hitting a record bottom for the present shares.

U. S. Steel, after resisting stubbornly, made a new low by a fraction but snapped back. General Electric ran into a fresh burst of selling and hit a new all-time low, while General Motors pierced its previous resistance point.

The immediate cause of the new liquidation was the sidetracking of the sales tax in the Senate. Added to this was the fresh concern over the European situation following the sudden resignation of Chancellor Ereuning in Germany. The dollar continued weak against foreign currencies and news from the steel industry was unfavorable.

Sullivan President of Calif. Bankers

J. F. Sullivan, Jr., vice-president of the Crocker First National Bank of San Francisco, has been elected president of the California Bankers Association. He has been active in banking activities in California for a number of years and has served successively as a member of the executive council, chairman of the executive committee and as vice-president of the state association. He also is chairman of the advisory committee on bank operations of the San Francisco Clearing House Association.

COOK-COOS

By TED COOK

Barking committee of the House plans to stabilize the dollar at its former purchasing power—when it was only worth a dollar, instead of $1.60, as at present.

That'll fix things in fine shape. We won't have to waste so much time wondering how to spend the extra sixty cents.

SUCCESS No. 98643

(News item)

"My mother," said Mrs. Pennington, "who was my best friend (I think that's always so true, don't you?), sent my photograph in to a St. Louis newspaper which was sponsoring a beauty contest. That was in 1921. I was asked to come before the judges, which I did, without a bathing suit, and finally I became the local winner."

The Hon. Mr. Fred Fujii has joined our corps of Japanese contributors and sends a martial note in today's offering:

LIFE IS A PARADE

March! March! March!
Keeping your step and march;
With baby, youth and old
Our life is a great parade.
I know, many obstruction on the way;
Evil, sickness and poverty,
But they are stimulus of our life.
March, march with bravely in your life.

The Voice of Broadway

By Louis Sobol

Prattle and Tattle!

The sun's high in the heavens and all's right with your world and mine, I guess, for the Democratic National Committee has decided that Mister Morton Downey shall sing the "Star-Spangled Banner" at its national convention, while Helene Costello, now freed of the Sherman Lowell marital shackle, is heading Eastward in Manhattan and Phil Rosen. Sally O'Neill took a church pledge yesterday not to touch a drop of liquor and for months, and the most important vaudeville deal in years is under way now, with Fanchon and Marco scheduled to have a dominant thumb in the RKO vaude circuit. Just a gamble, as you realize, but of consequential and inconsequential facts—a hot-weather potpourri. The Virginia Bruce-John Gilbert proposed merger doesn't surprise the readers of this dept., for they were advised of the romance weeks and weeks ago, when the weather as cooler; nor the romance of Lou Wells and Evelyn Knapp—that Scorpos which we told you about three weeks ago, but here's one for your little note book: Zazu Pitts and Edward Woodball will definitely march to the altar before many more months elapse, and, apropos of nothing much, I rather like Max Lief's suggestion that since George Gershwin didn't get the Pulitzer award, he's at least eligible for the Wurlitzer prize, and if that doesn't make sense neither does Carl Laemmle. Junior's on-again-off-again romance with Constance Cummings. It's off again.

Well, Kathryn Ray dashed off to Europe again last week to rejoin her Mecco—an international affair that's always worth a line —and the Prince of Wales is beginning to fight off fat. The Johnny Weissmuller situation at the present writing is this: because his picture activities force temporary separation they have made a broad-minded pact, agreeing to permit each to go out with others, let the gossip chips fall where they may. The whole point in my paragraph yesterday dealing with the Pierre Boulez opera ban lad in a composing room shuffle—i. e., that one of the nice-mannered cads of the season is Hutton party—is lad of about 30, with a mind of a child of twelve, used a wet napkin at Jackie Osterman while he was singing "Is There Anybody Going to Do It?" I've got to get that in for the record. Incidentally, in arranging the private plan for the Waldorf-Astoria Roof it was seriously contemplated having a fragrance act as an exciting entertainment tidbit, but some of the people consulted protested that it was annoying to face the possibility of having acrobats falling into the hot soup. Only Nully's in town, going places with George Jean Nathan.

An entire reproduction of our own Times Square will be constructed in Hollywood shortly for the picturization of "On Times Square," Richard Aubrey, incidentally, by Sammy Fuller, former office boy on a New York tab.

"Stocky" Allen, the artist, and Gladys Parker, also an artist, are not separated, as reported in one newspaper recently, and Doris Duke, leaving for Europe, confides that at present her heart's a soul in the world she's interested in, meaning that not when the time comes she'd like to slip off and get married without newspaper fanfare. Try and do it. Young Bobby Labranche, of the Social Register, sails shortly for "overthere" and will tour Europe in a second-hand Ford. Another columnistic picture has been turned out by Rian James tagged "Lou' Mouth," and Lupe Velez went about the city recently collecting funds for the anti-prohibition cause by offering a kiss on the cheek for $1 and a kiss on the lips for $5. The collections were heavy. May Christie, the society scribbler, is financially in the becoming fashion, and Wednesday afternoon Jackie Coogan lunched at the Central Park Casino, flanked on each side by two beautiful girl undergraduates, Kiviette and Charles LeMaire have joined forces.

Fred Pfeiffer, son of Alexander, the criminal lawyer, and Harriet Freund are purring and cooing in the feverish manner, and Lois Storrow, the little blonde acrobatic dancer, is now the missus of one of the boys in the Brooks Memphis Philharmonic Orchestra of Broadway, where you hear anything you want to hear, the report is that Mayor Walker has permitted his resignation, to take effect June 30, but that the resignation is tendered only in the event that he emerges from the Seabury fill with an absolutely clean bill of civic health. Incidentally, Broadway is almost 100 per cent for its Jimmy—don't know what a man in public service who commands as much loyalty from the hard-boiled sector as does Mayor Joyne Dunkin, the show gal, lost her mother in Texas recently. All Hollywood is laffing at the naive publicity man on the coast who broke a yarn to the effect that a well-known cinema star had taken adjoining beach houses for the summer.

• Leon Spachner, former treasurer of the Vanderbilt Theater, and popular along Broadway, is seriously ill with an infection of the spine. Beatrice Blynn (Mrs. Crane Wilbur) having taken up painting in a serious way, leaves shortly for Paris to Montmartre it. The romance between Walter Hart, young director of "Marry-Go-Round," and Rose Lerner, the able character actress, goes on merrily and Teddy Hammerstein's pulse is Dorothy Underhill, a pretty Westchester school-mam.

New England Manufacturers Speak

The New England Council asked the manufacturers of New England how they felt about the manufacturers' sales tax.

The manufacturers represent the most important industries in this section of the country and they were chosen for the question in order that every locality and every type of industry might be ascertained.

What do you suppose their answer was?

Of the 674 manufacturers who replied, 608 said they believed the manufacturers' sales tax should be adopted.

The ratio in favor was eleven to one in Massachusetts, nine to one in Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island, six to one in Connecticut and five to one in Vermont.

These manufacturers are hard-headed business men. They know the budget of the national government must be balanced and they know it ought to be done by the simplest form of taxes possible, not by the vexatious and discriminatory nuisance taxes which cripple business and harass and annoy the taxpayers.

They know, too, that measures must be employed at times like these to strengthen the ebbing prices of basic commodities.

More important, they are normally big employers of labor. When they get going on a sure and certain foundation, thousands upon thousands of workers will be called back to their places in the factory and shop. The workers will have a pay envelope, not another report of disappointment, to bring into their homes on Saturday night.

One Life in Four Wasted

Major General Hanson E. Ely declared in an address at the University Club that if the United States had been adequately prepared at the start of the World War, the casualties would have been at least 25 per cent less.

This is a true statement but it is an extraordinary one when you come to analyze it for its full value.

If the United States had been adequately prepared, ONE LIFE WOULD HAVE BEEN SAVED out of every four lives sacrificed to the cause of war.

One home out of every four, and the sorrowing mother and grieving father, would have been spared the affliction of the loss of the son dear to them.

When you next visit a veterans' hospital and see these young men still suffering the hurts of war, including the shell-shock victims deprived of their mentality, say to yourself that one out of every four would have been spared this anguish had the United States been adequately prepared.

You can say more than that. You can say that all the suffering and horror of war might have been averted, because we probably never would have been insulted and abused and driven into war if the United States had been believed to be in readiness to defend herself.

In that conclusion you are supported by America's greatest warrior and greatest statesman, General George Washington. It was he who said that preparedness for war is the best guarantee against war.

Post Office 'Economy'

The savage axe of government economy has fallen upon that little but fine body of men who are known as substitute driver mechanics of the Boston Postal Department.

They are the men who operate motor trucks and wagons, collecting and delivering mail amid the terrific congestion of a great city.

They prepared themselves well for their jobs. They are not alone mere operators; they can repair their trucks and wagons in any emergency and get your mail to you without long delay. Moreover, they were required to take stiff civil service tests of their fitness.

Their average pay today is not more than $17 a week. But there are many of them, after six years of service, who are enabled to earn not more than $9 or $10 a week, their opportunity for regular work having been sliced by the axe of economy.

On this salary, Uncle Sam expects them to raise families, maintain homes and be aggressive, enthusiastic and patriotic citizens. If the Postal Department can't give them more adequate reasons for good citizenship than by paring down their salaries, it ought to close up shop. These men could get more money by loafing entirely and applying to the city for welfare aid as paupers.

Money Cache Revealed

The piano tuners in convention at Washington have revealed a monetary secret long known to themselves. Cash accumulates in old instruments, they say, and, in course of time, it will amount to the average of six coins.

Since there are 15 million elderly pianos in the land—and if five of the coins are copper and the other a nickel—the amount thus hidden should come to $900,000.

Some of the old melodeons, dating back to the early Cleveland era, when our grandmothers plaintively sang to them, "Take Back the Heart That Thou Gavest," ought to have well over $15 in their innards. There will be a general rush to investigate—and who can do this job so well as piano tuners who need the work?

What we want to know is what piano tuners find in pianos of this age? How many gin bottles, trays, cocktail-shakers and radio parts and similar ballast? Or is it merely that the music sounds that way?

New York Day by Day

Roaring Forties

NEW YORK, May 31—The mail coach clatter of the Roaring Forties has a rubber-tired hush—an eerie nuance—between 6 and 7 in the evening. It's the twilight hour when the customary callosity softens and the defense mechanism, set up by those living hard and dangerously, is dropped. The White Way becomes "folksey."

Four-flushers shed their monocle manners. Confidence men are no longer roués. Rowgers or other big money guys. At this period the Tenderloin shifts down to "regulars," at theater time the picture shifts into high again. Lips tighten. Talk brittles into monosyllabic clip.

The other evening in a free and easy auberge, a group of trans-Atlantic gamblers — "ocean greyhounds"—were ragging each other. This has been the toughest of all seasons for them. Slim passenger lists coupled with thin purses make pickings scarce.

They address one another by underworld monikers, such as Gentleman Mac. The Flash and Boston Bart. Aces in the wars swapped 'n boon trimmings on the high seas, of brushes with Scotland Yard and the Paris Prefecture. It was like collegiates recalling campus capers.

Ladies of the mob, too, lose their worldly veneer and conversation has a quick uptake. They talk of their men, of their beatings and of the polite pilfering among easy marks. Gambling house tours, bronhd runners, dice game tip-off men and all the sundry flotsam are equally garrulous.

Their shady trickeries are, in the eyes of comrades, achievements. Crooks, off to themselves, express a child-like quality—the bland immaturity which in a large measure is responsible for the recklessness of their lawless adventures.

New York knows "Daddy" Browning these days only through a huge block-long sign glowing in tri-colored succession across his real estate offices a hop-skip from Columbus Circle. The ex-hero of the tabloids, now white-haired, is rarely seen among haunts that knew him so well—dance halls, theaters and cafes. He was for a time the best copy among a sensational press, but he has either become tired of thick headlines or is thinking up a new idea. Many regard him as a bit cracked, yet he has an amazingly trigger mind. For years he lived unostentatiously at a family hotel in West 72d st. Then all of a sudden burst forth in a series of marital exploits, splashing first pages. Flooded with suits, he has won almost all, and shrewd lawyers say these victories are attributable largely to his grasp of the law.

A concessionaire has some fifty penny weighing machines scattered about Grand Central Station. In prosperous times each averaged a dollar daily take-in or a total of $50. The other day the combined receipts were $1.89.

Barney Gallant, who is cloistered all winter in the thick stuff of his Greenwich Village cabaret, takes fresh air in large chunks. From May until October he accompanies his thick juts of eyebrows and Picadilly accent to some tropical clime and sleeps in the open.

In an abandoned moment of giving way to reactions of names it comes to me that Herndon and Pangborn suggest the whang of a Chinese gong. Cleo Throckmorton always reminds me of the grinding brakes in an auto smash-up. And the lecture impresario, Lee Keedick, is remindful of a thrush in the thicket at sunrise. Also I never hear mention of Jouett Shouse without thinking of a howling dog being thrown into the creek. But the most expressive of all was a bronzed dancing man at the Midnight Frolic, years ago. He was from Hawaii, billed as Kidalap Kaduloop. If that isn't running a stick along a picket fence, you think up one.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

We Must Catch Up

THE WORLD'S IN A MESS. How did it get that way?

Not because the stock market crashed. It began before that.

Not just because we had a war. It began before that.

Even if we'd had no market crash, no war, we'd have gotten into this jam. Why?

BECA USE OUR PROGRESS IS LOP SIDED.

Elsie Robinson

Fifty million more or less, years ago man was a stupid creature, living in groups, like wolf packs, with no more social organization or scientific knowledge than wolves. He had no laws except the pack rules; no tools except fist and tooth.

Then, slowly, man began to arm himself, train himself to fight against other brutes, to rule the jungle and shape a society of his own.

So civilization began, very feebly at first, not gaining much momentum for many, many centuries. Men herded together in walled citadels, offered sacrifices together in strange temples; but human life was still close to wolf-pack life. Man still knew little about his world or himself, was still bound by his own fear and ignorance.

Then, all at once, everything speeded up amazingly. Science began to take a hand. Science invented machines, equipped laboratories, started factories. Suddenly life became infinitely more complicated and dangerous, and at the same time more free and easy.

NOW THINK WHAT THAT CHANGE DID TO MEN.

Suppose you take a little ten-year-old child, who had always played with toys in his father's yard, far from the city, knowing nothing but that quiet ranch life, then suddenly sweep away everything that child has known, all the old faces, all the old ideas, all the familiar customs. Drop him down in the midst of the city's bedlam. Give him every form of dangerous machine. Release him from discipline and drudgery. Tell him that everything his father did or had or feared or desired was baloney. Tell him he can have what he pleases, do what he pleases—go to it!

What will happen to that child? HE WILL GO HAYWIRE.

And that is exactly what has happened to the human race. The human race has gone haywire. Science has given us too much power, too much speed, too much opportunity, too much freedom, too much pleasure, too much ease, too much competition, before we were ready for it.

Our mechanical progress is two million years ahead of our mental progress. We are a wolf pack turned loose in the Rockefeller Institute, riding the elevators of the Empire State Building. We are children, playing with earthquakes and tidal waves.

OUR HANDS PULL LEVERS, BUT OUR HEADS AND OUR HEARTS DON'T KNOW WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT.

Now we're forced to stop a while, or we'll smash ourselves to smithereens. We're forced to catch our breath. Learn how to use time, how to use power, wealth, human energy. Learn how to use ourselves.

What has happened? That's what has happened. Not a market crash or a war. Something infinitely bigger and more significant than any market crash or any war. A jerk in the human cycle. A smash and a slow up. We've come too fast, too far. NOW WE MUST CATCH UP WITH OURSELVES.

There's a little book about it. Great stuff. William McDougall, famous British psychologist, wrote it. Buy it. Read it. Think about it. Talk about it. Are you bewildered, angry bursting with bitter questions? That book will answer every one of them.

Just Folks

The Calmer Life

What more from life does man require
Than raiment, bed and food and fire?
With these, though humble they may be,
The spring flowers blooming he can see.
The joy of laughter he can know,
Can watch his little garden grow,
Find friendships and in countless ways
Make interesting all his days.

How many years shall man in vain
Seek peace from luxury and gain?
Though well it is high goals to reach,
This truth alone success can teach:
That no estate from care is free,
And only he can happy be
Who, rich or poor, has faith to grace
With tenderness the common place.

The happiness man hopes to find
Is truly of the heart and mind;
A gift that lies himself within,
Not something he must fight to win.
Though rich or poor who plays the man
And does the little that he can
Time's ordinary tasks to share
Can fill life's purpose anywhere.

Congress Can Restore Purchasing Power

By Claude G. Bowers

IT IS ANNOUNCED by Representative Britten, of Illinois, that Mr. Hoover will seek re-election as a "wet." It will be observed that, according to the Representative, the President merely will "seek re-election as a wet." That means that in Mr. Hoover's mind the question whether we shall continue the existing conditions merely is a political question; and that, as a matter of strategy in seeking "re-election" he prefers to be known as a "wet." This, of course, would be a complete reversal of his bone-dry position all through his Administration.

Just now the American people are not so much concerned with re-elections or elections as in results. Taxes are being piled on the people's backs until they are breaking, because this country refuses to tap the productive source of revenue from which other nations draw almost a third of the amount necessary to operate their governments. These taxes in America are a burden to business. They are a burden even to the small taxpayers in days like these. And the Government has been testing its ingenuity in finding something new to tax.

And yet it does not think of taxing the most opulent industry in America today, an industry that finances crime on a huge scale—and one that has been taxed in the past. Light wines and beer would bring in an enormous revenue—because of which the taxes on individuals and industry could be enormously reduced.

Since the President is to pose as a "wet" for "re-election purposes, if there is any sincerity in the pose, there is no reason why he should not notify Congress of his willingness to sign a beer bill for the purposes of revenue now. With that notification such a bill would pass.

His refusal to do anything of the sort reduces his "wet" pretensions for the purpose of "re-election" to a pose, and the country is tired of poses from politicians.

Hoover Is Opposed to a Bond Issue

Mr. Hoover, however, is against anything of the sort.

He also is against using any Federal money to prevent the starvation of women and children.

He is likewise opposed to a bond issue to be paid in the future to put a great army of men to work.

And he still imagines that if he can pump Federal money into the coffers of private business that will increase the purchasing power of the thirty millions who have no purchasing power today.

As far as unemployment is concerned he makes a virtue of taking his stand against any experiments and of clinging to the traditional ideas and methods.

But no President in American history has ever dreamed of going into the field of experimentation and in departing from old theories to the extent of Mr. Hoover.

When before has the Government loaned two billions from the Treasury to private corporations, in the hope that they will pay, as it has done under Mr. Hoover in the case of banks and railroads?

How shocking it would have seemed ten years ago! And yet we have done it—because the extraordinary nature of the crisis makes it worth trying.

And when the pressure of public opinion begins to bear hard upon him for something to relieve unemployment, and restore purchasing power and thus revive business, he emerges with a plan to pump more millions of the public money into private enterprise—in the hope that it will be paid back.

More has been done by Mr. Hoover to change our whole governmental policy in this regard than ever before in all the years of the republic preceding his Presidency.

* * *

Gov. Ritchie's Note of Warning

There are economists and business men who do not think that this plan of the President, departing from all precedent, will have any effect in decreasing unemployment and increasing purchasing power. There are some—such as Professor Rogers, of Yale—who believe that it paves the way to State socialism on a large scale. Not all of these industries will be able to pay back the loan. What will Government do—enter business directly?

And Governor Ritchie sounds another note of warning:

"Mindful of these ventures into experimental seas, I do not believe much if anything can be accomplished by pumping some hundreds of millions of dollars through governmental channels into private industry. On the contrary, I am convinced that such a course might do irreparable harm to our whole economic system in years to come."

And then he submits a thought worth pondering:

"When the Government throws its resources behind one group of citizens, it inevitably handicaps other groups of citizens who are in the same field of activity. Then as an almost inevitable next step come discriminations and political favoritism in doling out the Government aid."

It calls for extraordinary temerity for Mr. Hoover to oppose a prosperity loan to put men to work and restore purchasing power on the ground that it is unprecedented, when he has done, and proposed, more unprecedented things than any other President in our entire history. And none of these have put one bite in one hungry mouth or given one job to one jobless man.

* * *

Ritchie now takes his stand four-square for a prosperity loan—thus lengthening the imposing procession of economists, statesmen, business men, bankers, and social welfare workers who are demanding that Congress act on that line.

With the number of the jobless increasing constantly, with the purchasing power of greater numbers being swept away, with the resentment and bitterness which no man can quarrel, growing more bitter, with another Winter ahead, the time has come for Mr. Hoover and his Administration to abandon the silly notion that there is any possible way to restore prosperity other than by putting men to work and restoring their purchasing power.

And there is no possible way to do that except through Government works. Private industry cannot be criticized for not giving men jobs. They cannot furnish jobs unless there is work to do; and there will be no work to do so long as we go on increasing the number of people with no power to buy. This is not the view of soap-box agitators; or reds, or pinks; but the view of hard-headed business men who have been driven to it by the stern and ominous realities.

Let Congress act!

* * *

Our Social System Is at Stake

And let it act with a full realization that we are engaged in a war —the most threatening war in which we ever have engaged. American institutions are at stake. Confidence of the masses in the justice of their Government is at stake. Our very social system is at stake.

Unless those institutions, unless that Government, unless that social system can find a way to get 30,000,000 people off the human scrap heap, we shall have lovely times ahead. With our enormous national wealth and resources we can do what is necessary—and dare not postpone doing it any longer.

Let the hair-splitters, the specialists on how not to do anything, the theorists and the "heavy thinkers" say what they will—the demand is that Congress act. And act regardless of the opposition of Mr. Hoover.
